Collaborative community partnerships across education settings Mariëtte P. Koen, Luiza O. De Souza, 2025-02-25

This book features chapters by scholars from various education fields specialising in sustainability. As the first volume in North West University's Community based Educational Research Series, it focuses on transforming education through a participatory approach. The authors explore quality education across early childhood, primary, secondary and higher education by examining collaborative efforts among practitioners, parents and teachers. This scholarly book provides empirical evidence on how collaborative initiatives can promote sustainable development. These initiatives encourage partnerships among community leaders, educators, learners, nongovernmental organisations, government and the private sector for lifelong learning and professional development. It highlights southern African experiences in collaborative education aligned with the United Nations sustainable development goal of achieving quality education. The book demonstrates various research designs and methods applied to educational practice from early childhood to tertiary levels through empirical research and community projects.

Commonwealth Education Partnerships, 2007, 2006 Commonwealth Education Partnership 2007 is an essential overview of the development of education systems in the Commonwealth focusing on international collaborations and on the partnerships in member countries between government, NGOs and the private sector in education. Eslamian,2022-04-18 Floods are difficult to prevent but can be managed in order to reduce their environmental social cultural and economic impacts Flooding poses a serious threat to life and property and therefore it s very important that flood risks be taken into account during any planning process This handbook presents different aspects of flooding in the context of a changing climate and across various geographical locations Written by experts from around the world it examines flooding in various climates and landscapes taking into account environmental ecological hydrological and geomorphic factors and considers urban agriculture rangeland forest coastal and desert areas Features Presents the main principles and applications of the science of floods including engineering and technology natural science as well as sociological implications Examines flooding in various climates and diverse landscapes taking into account environmental ecological hydrological and geomorphic factors Considers floods in urban agriculture rangeland forest coastal and desert areas Covers flood control structures as well as preparedness and response methods Written in a global context by contributors from around the world Strengthening the quality of teacher education programs Fika Megawati,Yudhi Arifani,Dodi Mulyadi,2024-01-18 Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman,2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industryacademia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region
