Readers:

Millennials struggle: the generation before us gave us such the idea of the "The Millionaire Next Door" to inspire us to become wealthy, right?

But we are left with a reality... The dollars paid to parents and large corporations are not enough to allow the government to pay for the cost and supply of capital. So the Millennials have grown up with the most limited education, training, and the most limited infrastructure and the most limited infrastructure. It's a vicious cycle: no infrastructure, no infrastructure, no infrastructure, no infrastructure.

1. What factors influenced the Millennials' family's educational and social success?
