The Future Potential of Electric and Hybrid Vehicles W. M. Carriere, 1982 Electric & Hybrid Vehicle Program Quarterly Report , 1979 Energy Research Abstracts , 1993 Electric and Hybrid Vehicle Performance and Design Goal Determination Study. Final Report , 1977 Recommendations are set forth for performance standards for near term and advanced electric and hybrid vehicles Limited market surveys and interviews with present owners of electric vehicles indicated that the most important criterion for private vehicles is low operating cost This criterion combined with the low specific energy density and relatively short life of present storage batteries was the key factor in the minimum performance specified for near term private electric vehicles two or more passengers 50 km range over the SAE J227a C driving schedule with a maximum energy use of about 0.9 MJ/km 0.4 kWh/mi Near term commercial vehicles have even lower recommended minimum performance including 50 km on the less demanding SAE J227a B schedule Heat engine battery electric hybrid vehicles may provide the driving range lacking in electric vehicles and use appreciably less fuel than conventional vehicles Performance standards recommended for near term hybrid vehicles call for essentially the same performance as for comparably sized near term electric vehicles except for increased range capability Development specifications recommended for advanced hybrids call for substantially reduced petroleum fuel consumption and the same acceleration capability exhibited by present conventional subcompact cars Performance standards for a light agricultural utility vehicle are developed A Report on Activities Under the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966 and the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act of 1972 , 1977 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports , 1994 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis , 1983 Energy Conservation Update , 1981 Final Report, Automotive Propulsion Systems Pilot Study North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Rare Earth Elements Volker Zepf,2013-02-14 This thesis deals with Rare Earth Elements REE especially with neodymium used in permanent magnets from a very scientific basis by providing basic research data Despite the fact that REE are newsworthy and very important elements for a considerable bandwidth of todays technologies accompanied by the monopolistic supply situation and Chinese politics there are inexplicable data discrepancies about REE which have been recognized frequently but usually have not been addressed accordingly So this analysis started with the hypothesis that the four application areas namely computer hard disk drives HDD mobile phones wind turbines and e mobility automotive traction account for about 80% of the global annual neodymium demand The research methodology was a laboratory analysis of the composition of used magnets for HDDs and mobile phones and a literature and official report analysis of wind turbine and automotive neodymium use The result was amazing and the hypothesis had to be withdrawn as these four areas only account for about 20% of neodymium use This result raises some questions concerning actual use and thus potential recycling options
