

Research paper : Social Media Addiction

Social media addiction is taking a toll on people's lives at an alarming rate. People are being controlled if you look around you see that people are glued to their cellular devices this can be rather annoying, more accidents happen on the road due to people being distracted and students are not paying enough attention to their studies. As the popularity of social networking has increased, so has the addiction to these social networks. The statistics show that five to fifteen million individuals use the internet on a daily basis. Even with this high number, the number increases by 25% every three months.

We have become slaves to the internet we no longer enjoy the outside world but capture every single moment on our cellular device. The average person spends nearly 2 hours a day using social media, which amounts to 5 years and 4 months of his/her lifetime. (Technology Addiction in Adolescents ). With the rapid development of technology, social media playing an important role in communication has become indispensable in the lives of individuals. (The predictive role of Narcissism and self esteem on social media addiction). Social media landscape in early 2018 is defined by a mix of long-standing trends and newly emerging narratives. Facebook and YouTube dominate this landscape, as notable majorities of U.S. adults use each of these sites. At the same time, younger Americans especially those ages 18 to 24 stand out for embracing a variety of platforms and using them frequently. Some 78% of 18- to 24-year-olds use Snapchat, and a sizeable majority of these users 71% visit the platform multiple times per day. Similarly, 71% of Americans in this age group now use Instagram and close to half 45% are Twitter users. ( Pew Research of Statistics of Social media ). Whether we like to admit it or not, social media, in all its forms, has taken a toll on our relationships particularly our friendships. Social media makes us feel like we know people better than we really do. Let's get one thing straight liking someone's photo on Instagram does not mean a friendship is made.

Accidents occur more often on the road our phones are constantly buzzing. It's no secret that texting and driving is a safety hazard . As updated car accident statistics continue to roll in, this problem becomes more apparent. It's clear that thousands of people have died or may have changed a life forever because of distracted drivers using their cell phones behind the wheel. Texting and driving absorb a driver's visual, manual, and cognitive attention creating the deadliest type of distraction on the road. (International Journal of Mental Health and Addiction). The red notification has permeated our lives it's on our laptops, on our phones begging us to pay attention; begging us to drop everything and find out what it could possibly be. Inadvertently, technology has become our closest friend, the person we will do anything for, drop anything for, even break away from
