

Chapter 35 – The Nervous System

1. Describe the structural and functional subdivisions of the nervous system. Describe the three parts of a reflex, distinguishing the three types of neurons that may be involved in the reaction.

The central nervous system consists of the brain and spinal cord. There are three types of neurons involved in reflexes: sensory neurons, motor neurons, and internal neurons. Reflexes consist of three parts: sensory input, integration, and motor output.

2. Describe the structures and functions of neurons and myelin sheaths.

Neurons are cells specialized in transmitting signals and are the functional units of the nervous system. The myelin sheath is a wrapped axon that strengthens cell insulation and speeds up signal transduction.

3. Define a resting potential and explain how it is created.

Resting potential is the voltage across the plasma membrane. At rest, the neuron's plasma membrane has a potential energy called the membrane potential.

4. Explain how an action potential is produced and the resting membrane potential restored.

A stimulus changes the permeability of a portion of the membrane, allowing ions to pass through it and altering the membrane tension. Action potentials change the membrane voltage from the resting potential to the maximum level and back to the resting potential.

5. Explain (a) how an action potential propagates itself along a neuron, (b) why action potentials move in only one direction, and (c) how action potentials relay different intensities of information.

(a) Action potentials propagate along neurons in a unidirectional chain reaction.

(b) Na^+ channels could not be opened for exit.

(c) with different sodium and potassium levels.

6. Compare the structures, functions, and locations of electrical and chemical synapses.
