Genetic testing is becoming increasingly common, with many people opting for direct-to-consumer (DTC) services. These services allow individuals to learn about their genetic predisposition to certain diseases, such as Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, and Huntington's. However, the use of DTC genetic testing has also raised concerns about privacy, data security, and the potential for discrimination.

Pharmacogenomics

Pharmacogenomics is the study of how genes affect a person's response to drugs. This field is rapidly advancing, with many new tests available that can help doctors tailor drug therapy to an individual's genetic makeup. For example, testing for the presence of certain genes can help determine the best dose of a drug or whether a patient is at risk of adverse reactions.

Personalized Medicine

Personalized medicine is a medical approach that tailors treatment to the individual characteristics of each patient. This approach is based on the understanding that people have different genetic, environmental, and lifestyle factors that can influence their health and response to treatment. Personalized medicine aims to improve patient outcomes by providing more targeted and effective therapies.
