The Ordeal of Equality David K. Cohen, Susan L. Moffitt, 2010-02-28 American schools have always been locally created and controlled But ever since the Title I program in 1965 appropriated nearly one billion dollars for public schools federal money and programs have been influencing every school in America What has been accomplished in this extraordinary assertion of federal influence What hasn't? Why not? With incisive clarity and wit David Cohen and Susan Moffitt argue that enormous gaps existed between policies and programs and the real world practices that they attempted to change Learning and teaching are complicated and mysterious So the means to achieve admirable goals are uncertain and difficult to develop and sustain particularly when teachers get little help to cope with the blizzard of new programs new slogans new tests and new rules Ironically as the authors observe the least experienced and least well trained teachers are often in the most needy schools so federal support is compromised by the inequality it is intended to ameliorate If new policies and programs don't include means to create the capability they require they cannot succeed We don't know what we need to enable states school systems schools teachers and students to use the resources that programs offer The trouble with standards based reform is that standards and tests still don't teach you how to teach Mastery Orientation Through Task-focused Goals Christopher

James Boys, 2003 Reading Educational Research Gerald Watkins Bracey, 2006 Stats stats stats It seems everything written about education today is full of stats With this book nimble minded number cruncher and award winning researcher Gerald Bracey takes your hand and walks you through the process of figuring out the meaning behind the figures You don't need to be a math whiz to follow Bracey because he writes with clarity and humor explicitly defining statistical terminology in easy to understand language and even offering you thirty two specific principles for assessing the quality of research as you read it Curriculum-based Monitoring with Diagnostic Analysis Roben Beyer, Saint Mary's University of Minnesota, 2008 The purpose of this quantitative study was to examine the effects of a homework intervention that included training parents on the use of a curriculum based monitoring system CBM with and without diagnostic analysis Participants were 20 fourth grade students from a rural Northern Minnesota school and their parents Parents consenting to the homework intervention were instructed on the use of Accelerated Math a curriculum based monitoring system with a diagnostic analysis CBM DA during a three hour training session Students were matched to one of two conditions a comparison group who only used Accelerated Math CBM or an experimental group that used Accelerated Math with diagnostic analysis CBM DA Students in both conditions were pre and post tested using both STAR Math and NWEA Measures of Academic Progress MAP Descriptive and inferential statistics were completed to determine if achievement using Growth Index and Normal Curve Equivalent NCE gains losses differed between students in each group The results indicated the homework intervention had a significant effect on the mathematics achievement of fourth grade students when comparing the experimental group to the comparison group
