The Handbook of Developmentally Appropriate Toys Doris Bergen, 2021-03-20 The handbook is composed of chapters by authors who discuss the important features of particular types of toys, provide information related to the developmental importance of this type of toy, discuss social and cultural issues engendered by play with such toys, and review the available research on the characteristics and potential impact on children's developmental progress of toys of that type. Both traditional toys and technological toys are discussed. The handbook is expected to serve both as a reference for educators, parents, toy designers, and other interested readers, and as a catalyst for further research and ongoing toy development. Its purpose includes helping readers to gain knowledge that enables them to more fully appreciate the value of children's toy play, find out more about the favorite toys they had in childhood, and relive those satisfying play experiences, and learn how to foster the learning, physical development, and social/emotional growth that comes from such toy play.

Investigating Light and Shadow With Young Children (Ages 3-8) Beth Dykstra Van Meeteren, 2022 Children are intrigued by switches that power a light source and by items that reflect light and sparkle and they take notice of personal shadows cast on the playground Many fields in STEM draw upon understanding of light and shadow such as astronomy biology engineering architecture and more This second volume in the STEM for Our Youngest Learners Series shows teachers how to engage children ages 3-8 with light and shadow in a playful way building an early foundation for the later more complex study of this phenomena and possibly piquing the curiosity of children that will ultimately lead to professions within the field of STEM. The text offers guidance for integrating literacy learning and investigations and for building partnerships with administrators. Each volume in this new series includes vignettes showing educators and children engaging in inquiry learning guidance for selecting materials and arranging the learning environment modifications and accommodations for diverse learners establishing adult learning communities to support professional development and more.
