

Strongly recommend that you prepare the following questions in advance

Statistical inference uses 2 different ways to summarize data. It either begins with a very broad focus, just using population or sample data to answer a question about the entire population or sample. Then, when looking at data on the individual cases and looking for a population of study, it divides it into 2 different ways and statistical inference involves both the sample and the population. The sample population suggests themselves, and what effect does the population have on the inference?

Exercise 1: Population and Sample and Subpopulations
