Inkoom, 2014-09-04 Gender-Responsive Governance in Sierra Leone John Idriss Lahai, 2023-07-28 This book investigates gender equality and women's empowerment in Sierra Leone focusing especially on women's interactions with the state and its development partners. In particular, it highlights women's increasing agency in acquiring knowledge, diffusing power, engaging in grassroots politics, and compelling the government to adopt more gender-responsive policies. Exploiting extensive fieldwork and original multidisciplinary research methods including econometric and statistical models, the book first sets out the history and impact of inequality in Sierra Leone and then goes on to shed light on the constructive and collaborative engagement of women and the state on a variety of local and external strategies for promoting gender equality. Drawing throughout on insights from across gender studies, sociology, anthropology, economics, and political science, the book highlights how women are succeeding in transforming marginality into agency in order to build a platform for influencing change. By qualifying and quantifying the challenges of gender inequality in Sierra Leone and the progress that is being made, this book provides important insights that will be relevant to other fragile post-conflict states within Africa. The book will be of interest to students and researchers studying women and gender studies, African studies, economics, international development, sociology, and political science, and international relations. It will also deepen policymakers and practitioners' understanding of women's diverse trajectories and experiences and how the typology of government affects the patterns of inequality and equality. UM99 User Modeling Judy Kay, 2014-05-04

User modeling researchers look for ways of enabling interactive software systems to adapt to their users by constructing, maintaining, and exploiting user models which are representations of properties of individual users. User modeling has been found to enhance the effectiveness and/or usability of software systems in a wide variety of situations. Techniques for user modeling have been developed and evaluated by researchers in a number of fields including artificial intelligence, education, psychology, linguistics, human-computer interaction, and information science. The biennial series of International Conferences on User Modeling provides a forum in which academic and industrial researchers from all of these fields can exchange their complementary insights on user modeling issues. The published proceedings of these conferences represent a major source of information about developments in this area. Creativity and Innovation in Times of Crisis (COVID-19) Roni Reiter-Palmon, Min Tang, Zorana

Poppendieck, Thomas David Poppendieck, 2014 Explores the efficiency of companies when using a lean mindset Provides advice on energising teams and creating sustainable efficiency to provide better services and products Looks at organisations with a lean mindset such as Pixar Spotify Intel and Ericsson Indigenist African Development and Related Issues Akwasi Asabere-Ameyaw, Jophus Anamuah-Mensah, George Sefa Dei, Kolawole Raheem, 2014-07-11 There is no term so heavily contested in social science literature nomenclature than Development This book brings Indigenous perspectives to African development It is argued that contrary to development as we know it not working a greater part of the problem is that conventional development approaches that work have in fact not truly been followed to the letter and hence the quagmire All this is ironic since everything we do about our world is development So how come there is difficult knowledge when it comes to learning from what we know i e what local peoples do and have done for centuries as a starting point to reconstructing and reframing development In getting our heads around this paradox we are tempted to ask more questions How do we as African scholars and researchers begin to develop home grown solutions to our problems How do we pioneer new analytical systems for understanding our communities and offer a pathway to genuine African development i e Indigenist African development see also Yankah 2004 How do we speak of Indigenist development mindful of global developments and entanglements around us Can we afford to pursue development still mired in a catch up scenario Are we in a race with the development world and where do we see this race ending or where do we define as the finishing line A Publication of the Centre for School and Community Science and Technology Studies SACOST University of Education Winneba Ghana Children, Childhood, and the Future Andrea Kleeberg-Niepage, 2020-01-10 Although most of the world's children live in the Global South much of the corpus of scientific knowledge which forms the basis of the current notion of good childhood worldwide is drawn from research on Western middle class children Even cross cultural research often applies the Western model of childhood as the standard to which others must correspond This volume serves to bridge this gap by both bringing up significant features of the development and socialisation of children in African countries and presenting cross cultural procedures which help to discuss and develop differentiated and joint ideas about childhood instead of implementing one sided standards which are disconnected from most children's lives Maid of Secrets Jennifer McGowan, 2014-06-24 In 1559 England Meg an orphaned thief is pressed into service and trained as a member of the Maids of Honor Queen Elizabeth I's secret all female guard but her loyalty is tested when she falls in love with a Spanish courtier who may be a threat The Grammar of Knowledge Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, R. M. W. Dixon, 2014-02-28

The Grammar of Knowledge offers both a linguistic and anthropological perspective on the expression of information sources as well as inferences, assumptions, probability and possibility and gradations of doubt and beliefs in a range of languages. The book investigates twelve different languages from families including Tibeto Burman, Nakh Dagestani and Austronesian, all of which share the property of requiring the source of information to be specified in every sentence. In these languages it may not be possible to say merely that the man went fishing. Instead, the source of evidence for the statement must also be specified, usually through the use of evidential markers. For example, it may be necessary to indicate whether the speaker saw the man go fishing, has simply assumed that the man went fishing, or was told that he went fishing by a third party. Some languages such as Hnuq and Tatar distinguish between first hand and non first hand information sources, others such as Ersu mark three distinct types of information: directly required, inferred or assumed and reported. Some require an even greater level of specification. Ash ninka Peren from South America has a specific marker to express suspicions or misgivings. Like others in the series, the book illustrates and examines these aspects of language in different cultural and linguistic settings. It will interest linguists of all persuasions as well as linguistically minded anthropologists. House Document

,2014 Socioculturally Responsive Assessment Randy E. Bennett, Linda Darling-Hammond, Aneesha Badrinarayan, 2025-05-01 Socioculturally Responsive Assessment assembles the best available thinking from within and outside the educational measurement community about the theoretical foundations and systems level policy implications of formal assessment programs designed to be socioculturally responsive. Synthesized from culturally responsive assessment design and practices, culturally relevant pedagogy and funds of knowledge, universal design for learning, the learning sciences and other literatures, this emerging concept affirms that students' learning and performance is inextricably tied to the social, cultural and linguistic contexts in which they live and develop knowledge. Across four sections, this book provides an argument and initial evidence for impact on students, users and assessment quality, offers guidance for implementation and examines the potential limitations, pitfalls, barriers and measurement issues that such programs will inevitably raise. Scholars, teaching faculty, test developers and policymakers will come away with integral foundations, new assessment approaches and a greater sense of the potential for positive impact that these assessments may afford. Éco-conception et transition écologique Marie-France Vernier, 2023-06-01 Les rapports successifs du GIEC soulignent rapidement les conséquences dommageables de l'activité humaine sur le climat. Une transition écologique paraît indispensable pour modifier notre système économique et social tout en répondant aux besoins des générations actuelles et futures. Premières responsables des dégâts environnementaux, les entreprises doivent modifier leur mode de production pour réduire leurs impacts négatifs sur l'environnement. Éco-conception et transition écologique présente une réflexion originale sur l'éco-conception, une méthode visant à proposer des produits ou des services ayant un impact environnemental réduit par rapport au mode de production conventionnel et à celle de l'extraction des ressources à la fin de vie des produits. Cet ouvrage analyse également les perspectives proposés par l'économie circulaire et l'innovation frugale. Il montre alors que l'innovation pour être durable doit être environnementale et sociale. Dans une vision systémique, il étudie ainsi la capacité des acteurs, notamment les entreprises, à changer de stratégie pour allier bien-être humain et respect de l'environnement dans le contexte de la transition écologique.
