

too much and need a new policy now. Accordingly, what policies should they choose? Containment or engagement? If the author suggests the necessity of shifting from the current policy to one of containment, he should explain the reasons why and how such a policy is needed. Nevertheless, Eberstadt's work proves useful for anyone interested in the North Korean issue and provides a timely important discussion of the subject.

Jenny Edkins, Poststructuralism and International Relations: Bringing the Political Back In (London: Lynne Rienner, 1999, 170 pp., £39.95 hbk.).

Poststructuralism and International Relations aims at bringing discussions of the concept of 'the political' into the theoretical debate within International Relations. It suggests that 'realignment and re-examination of the subjectivity' would challenge International Relations as it reassesses "'the political" itself' (p. xi). This aim is approached by looking at mainly three important philosophical traditions: poststructuralist, deconstructivist, and psychoanalytical, focusing particularly on the writings of Michel Foucault, Jacques Derrida, Jacques Lacan, and Slavoj Žižek. Thus, follows a discussion of the possibility of articulating a perspective which thinks about the question of the political.

In the first chapter, Edkins focuses on the differentiation between 'politics and the political'. The former refers to 'depoliticised' and normalised activities within given social structures, while 'the political' refers to the overarching social framework in which politics takes place and in which other social spheres are delineated. The central issues of the book—depoliticisation, sovereignty, and subjectivity—are used to bring about the question of the political in terms of 'time, essence, and language'.

In chapter two, the reader is introduced to four decentrings of the Enlightenment subject, which Edkins locates in the Cartesian subjectivity. She analyses different challenges from a variety of positions: linguistic (Saussure), Unconscious (Sigmund Freud), Feminist (Luce Irigaray), and social (Karl Marx). These positions are then developed from the perspectives of Foucault, Derrida, Lacan, and Žižek.

Chapter three deals with Foucault's writings and the way in which he problematises the Enlightenment subject. Edkins demonstrates the possibility of questioning, and thus denaturalising, the relationship between an assigned subject position and politics, whereby the subject is repoliticised along with the knowledge such as power the state policy institutions the media security political economy and show how theories can be used and applied within each topic

US Taiwan Policy Øystein Tunsjø, 2008-02-18 The relationship between the United States and China is one of the most important issues in the twenty first century and is ultimately hostage to conditions across the Taiwan Strait This book is the first to attempt to trace the historical origin of what is known as the Taiwan issue in US China relations from a constructivist perspective based on detailed archival research The analysis used supplements the mainstream rationalist approach by developing a new theoretical perspective on US Taiwan policy that incorporates constructivism s emphasis on identity norms and discourse analysis Scholars have never previously developed or elaborated upon this approach to any significant extent The book re examines the protection of Taiwan by military means following the outbreak of the Korean War and the establishment of the one China policy in relation to the process of rapprochement during President Nixon s first term in office It also considers the contemporary challenges posed to the one China policy by the increased importance of promoting human rights and democracy in US foreign policy arguing that the current US China policy is guided by a new strategy based on engagement plus hedging

Political Science Revitalized Michael Haas, 2017-07-28 Political science has been described as a jigsaw puzzle with many specializations and subfields that do not talk to one another This book offers a solution that will advance the field from mid level theory to engage in cross fertilization through metatheoretical paradigms The book begins with a history of political science from the nineteenth century to the present followed by a paradigmatic history of political science including 6 metatheories in the pre behavioral era 12 in the behavioral era and the 4 major and several minor paradigms being developed today The book advances the goal of David Easton by proposing a neobehavioral political science including multimethodological innovations cross testing of paradigms and tenets of a new political science that can rise to become a truly theoretical science Each paradigm is diagramed to demonstrate the key concepts and their causal interconnections Political Science Revitalized Filling the Jigsaw Puzzle with Paradigms poses an exciting and provocative argument for the future of the vast field of political science

Individual Agency and Policy Change at the United Nations Ingvild Bode, 2015-03-24 This book highlights how temporary international civil servants play a crucial role in initiating processes of legal and institutional change in the United Nations system These individuals are the missing creative elements needed to fully understand the emergence and initial spread of UN ideas such as human development sovereignty as responsibility and multifunctional peacekeeping The book Shows that that temporary UN officials are an actor category which is empirically crucial yet usually neglected in analytical studies of the UN system Focussing on these particular individual actors therefore allows for a better understanding of complex UN decision making Demonstrates how these civil servants matter looking at what their agency is based on Offering a new and distinctive model Bode seeks to move towards a comprehensive conceptualisation of individual agency which is currently conspicuous for its absence in many theoretical approaches that address policy change Uses three key case studies of international civil servants Francis Deng Mahbub ul Haq and Marrack Goulding to explore the possibilities of this specific group of UN individuals to act as agents of change and thereby test the prevailing notion that international bureaucrats can only act as agents of the status quo This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of international organizations and the United Nations Cultures and Politics of Global Communication: Volume 34, Review of International Studies Costas M. Constantinou, Oliver P. Richmond, Alison Watson, 2008-06-12 This special issue of Review of International Studies focuses on how International Relations IR communicates with the world and vice versa It opens up the discussion of the politics of communication within the discipline and beyond With a variety of different mediums ranging from media film memory music culture and emotions this book seeks to accentuate their importance for IR both as a source of knowledge and as an ideational exchange which shapes IR It examines the diverse ways that multidisciplinary thinkers try to understand and explain global routes mobilities cultures commodifications singularities discourses and aestheticisations This special issue specifically addresses three interrelated themes How international and global studies approach the question of communication how to conceptualise and respond to the globalisation of communication and how global problems get communicated within and across the institutional settings of the epistemic disciplines in general and the IR discipline in particular The Business of War James A. Tyner, 2017-11-30 Since the cessation of major combat operations in Iraq approximately 120 people either contract workers or private soldiers have been abducted with one third being executed The largest contingent of these workers has been provided by the Philippines Through a specific though not exclusive focus on the Philippines connection this book considers the myriad ways in which transnational labour migration intersects with the occupation of Iraq Also examining the role of the USA in the Middle East the book places the war on terror within the practices of neoliberalism but also links this with migration issues and argues that it is all part of a larger business of conflict Politics and Post-Structuralism Alan Finlayson, 2019-07-29 No detailed description available for Politics and Post Structuralism Globalizing International Theory A. Layug, John M. Hobson, 2022-09-30 Globalizing International Theory adds to the literature on non Western international relations IR theory by probing the question of what it means to globalize international theory The book starts with the premise that international theory is unfinished incomplete and homogenous because it provides a limited conception of the international which in turn derives from its partiality that reflects its narrow Western centric bias The contributors argue that the IR vision of the world is projected through a polarizing Western filtered lens Rather than utilizing an objective set of explanatory tools for explaining world politics the reality is that orthodox IR theory only tells us why the West is best and why the Rest should become like the West This means that international theory is not truly international In provincializing Western international theory this volume navigates beyond the Eurocentric and imperial frontier of the prevailing limited conception of the international to explore the hidden contributions to international theory which can be found in the non Western world Bringing in excluded non Western conceptions of international theory highlights a broader conception of the international The book provides a framework for theorizing globally exploring the fundamental problems with Western IR theory and how to overcome them This book will be used by advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students scholars researchers and IR theorists worldwide who are interested in non Western IR theory It will help navigate the problem of internationalness in the face of the grand theoretical problem of our time the use and misuse of international theory in making sense of and responding to the complex global realities of the twenty first century

Lacan, Deleuze and World Politics Andreja Zevnik, 2016-02-26 This book aims to re think the way in which the subject is inscribed in the modern political and does so by exploring the potentiality of Lacano Deleuzian theoretical framework It concerns a different ontology and a non dualist understanding of political and legal existence by focusing on questions such as how to think alternative notions of political existence and what kind of political social and legal order do these come to create This investigation into political appearance of subjects through concepts of law body and life is led and influenced by the thought of Gilles Deleuze and Jacques Lacan as well as Alain Badiou Antonio Negri and Slavoj i ek The book takes on various conceptualisations of life explores the relationship between law and life and develops an alternative notion of legal and political existence in particular in the context of rights On the back of Guantamo s legal and political discourses this work aims to show why and how the problems of world politics or the limitations of human rights discourse require an engagement with questions such as what it means to exist as a human being what forms of life are politically recognised which are not and why this distinction By pointing to a different ontology for thinking and understanding global politics and demonstrating how a trans disciplinary and philosophical approaches can foster the debates in world politics this book will be of interest to postgraduates and scholars working on critical normative ideas in international politics critical security studies and critical legal studies

The Postcolonial Subject Vivienne Jabri, 2013 This book places the lens on postcolonial agency and resistance in a social and geopolitical context that has witnessed great transformations in international politics What does postcolonial politics mean in a late modern context of interventions that seek to govern postcolonial populations Drawing on historic and contemporary articulations of agency and resistance and highlighting voices from the postcolonial world the book explores the transition from colonial modernity to the late modern postcolonial era It shows that at each moment wherein the claim to politics is made the postcolonial subject comes face to face with global operations of power that seek to control and govern As seen in the Middle East and elsewhere these operations have variously drawn on war policing as well as pedagogical practices geared at governing the political aspirations of target societies The book provides a conceptualisation of postcolonial political subjectivity discusses moments of its emergence and exposes the security agendas that seek to govern it Engaging with political thought from Hannah Arendt to Frantz Fanon Michel Foucault and Edward Said among other critical and postcolonial theorists and drawing on art literature and film from the postcolonial world this work will be of great interest to students and scholars of critical international relations postcolonial theory and political theory

Integrating and Articulating Environments: A Challenge for Northern and Southern Europe F. Adaman, F. Goksen, J. Grolin, M. O'Brien, O. Seippel, E.U. Zenginobuz, 2015-03-14 A critical comparative exploration of the framing of environmental problems in Northern and Southern Europe The book addresses theoretical and empirical questions about environmental attitudes and behaviours politics and protest cultures and contexts

The International in Security, Security in the International Pinar Bilgin, 2016-07-15 International Relations continues to come under fire for its relative absence of international perspectives In this exciting new volume Pinar Bilgin encourages readers to consider both why and how non core geocultural sites allow us to think differently about key aspects of global politics Seeking to further debates surrounding thinking beyond the West non West divide this book analyzes how scholarship on and conceptions of the international outside core contexts are tied up with peripheral actors search for security Accordingly Bilgin looks at core periphery dynamics not only in terms of the production of knowledge in the production of IR scholarship or material threats but also peripheral actors conceptions of the international in terms of standard of civilization and their more contemporary guises which she terms as hierarchy in anarchical society The first three chapters provide a critical overview of the limits of our theorizing about IR and security as well as a discussion on the track record of critical approaches to IR and security in addressing those limits The following three chapters offer one way of addressing the limits of our theorizing about IR and security by inquiring into the international in security security in the international Each of these chapters makes a theoretical point and illustrates this further in a spotlight section that further illustrates the point to aid student learning A genuinely innovative contribution to this rapidly emerging field within IR this book is essential reading for students and scholars of critical security international relations theory and Global IR

Evaluating Progress in International Relations Annette Freyberg-Inan, Ewan Harrison, Patrick James, 2016-10-04 This edited volume offers a systematic evaluation of how knowledge is produced by scholarly research into International Relations The contributors explore three key questions To what extent is scientific progress and accumulation of knowledge possible What are the different accounts of how this process takes place And what are the dominant critiques of these understandings It is the first publication to survey the full range of perspectives available for evaluating scientific progress as well as dominant critiques of scientism In its second part the volume applies this range of perspectives to the research program on the democratic peace It shows what we gain by accommodating and enabling dialogue among the full range of epistemological approaches The contributors elaborate and defend the epistemological position of sociable pluralism as one that seeks to build bridges between soft positivism critical theory and critical realism The underlying idea is that if the differences between the various approaches used by different communities of researchers can be understood more clearly this will facilitate meaningful cross cutting communication dialogue and debate and thereby enable us to address real world problems more effectively This timely and original work will be of great interest to advanced level students and scholars dealing with philosophy of science and methodological questions in International Relations Queering Governance and International Law Caitlin Biddolph, 2025 International law is brought into existence by actors from a variety of perspectives international lawyers state representatives bureaucrats and organizations and as such international law is riddled with contradictions It is violent and violating reducing complex lives and histories to good lawful and bad criminal bodies subject to protection praise or punishment And yet it has potential to be a means of hope resistance and justice for victims survivors and oppressed communities In Queering Governance and International Law Caitlin Biddolph examines the international legal space through queer feminist and postcolonial lenses In doing so she queers governance and international law exposing the gendered and sexualized meanings behind legal concepts like violence and critiquing legal status quos so that more transformative liberatory and queerer paths to justice might be dreamt and manifested within and beyond international law Using as a case study the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia ICTY Biddolph traces the cis heteronormative underpinnings of legal violence and identifies ways that violence can be resisted and international law subverted to dismantle the very gendered and racial hierarchies it has reinforced

The Killing of Cambodia: Geography, Genocide and the Unmaking of Space James A. Tyner, 2017-05-15 Between 1975 and 1978 the Khmer Rouge carried out genocide in Cambodia unparalleled in modern history Approximately 2 million died almost one quarter of the population Taking an explicitly geographical approach this book argues whether the Khmer Rouge s activities not only led to genocide but also terraced the erasure of space In the Cambodia of 1975 the landscape would reveal vestiges of an indigenous pre colonial Khmer society a French colonialism and American intervention The Khmer Rouge however were not content with retaining the past inscriptions of previous modes of production and spatial practices Instead they attempted to erase time and space to create their own utopian vision of a communal society The Khmer Rouge s erasing and reshaping of space was thus part of a consistent sacrifice of Cambodia and its people a brutal justification for the killing of a country and the birth of a new place Democratic Kampuchea While focusing on Cambodia the book provides a clearer geographic understanding to genocide in general and insights into the importance of spatial factors in geopolitical conflict
