Activity 5 : Read the following description of the tea ceremony and write a concluding paragraph for it in your Portfolio.

The Way Of Tea

- The tea ceremony is a well-orchestrated series of events. It takes place in a chashitsu, which is a building or a room in which the ritual is performed. The ritual involves meeting the guests, a purification with fresh water in a stone basin, walking through the grounds of the teahouse, watching the tea being prepared, consuming food and drinking the tea.
- Together, the chashitsu, roji (tea garden), and mizuya (preparation room) should provide the best physical and spiritual setting for expressing this hospitality. There is also a religious dimension associated with Zen Buddhism ideals. The whole universe is experienced in the drinking of a bowl of tea giving oneself over totally to the here and now fully participating with a heart free from selfish desires.
- The ceremony is like a play consisting of two acts and an intermission. In the shozo, or first act, the guests enter the chashitsu and are served a light meal. After this, the guests retire to the garden for a short break or the intermission and wait for the host to call them back. The second act is called the gozo. First the host prepares match (thick tea) for the guests. He then prepares the charcoal a second time and makes usucha (thin tea). When all of this is finished, the host and guests silently and respectfully bow to each other one last time and the guests take their leave.
