Student Exploration: Populations and Samples

Readings: Frequency distribution, normal distribution, population, sample

Prior Knowledge Questions (What do you already know about this topic?)

a. Frequency distribution indicates how many times some value occurs within a group of values. Suppose a large number of people were surveyed on how many hours per week they can work. The frequency of that data shows the frequency distribution of that variable, without sampling.

b. How would you approximate shape of the distribution?

c. As the curve grows to the right, which value gets closer to the frequency distribution shape that the frequency distribution would display if the number being surveyed was

Class Activity

In many cases, a frequency distribution is approximately normal. However, there are cases where the distribution is not normal. For example, the distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal.

a. The normal distribution is the distribution of the number of children born to a woman. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal.

b. About the distribution of the number of children born to a woman. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal. The distribution of the number of children born to a woman is not normal.

c. What is the mean of the distribution? (Mean = _____) How many _____
