Studies in the Economic History of the Middle East M. A. Cook, 2015-12-22 First Published in 2004 Did medieval Muslims have the concept of a social class If not can we usefully employ the term in analysing their society Were there such things as guilds in the medieval Middle East Would we understand the economic de'cline of Mamluk Egypt better if we used paradigms derived from the study of the economic history of England and Italy in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries How much can the enormous fiscal archive of the Ottoman Empire tell us about population history Why was the Middle East so backward if indeed it was compared with the rest of the Afro Asian world in the nineteenth century Have Iran and Iraq better prospects for economic growth than otherwise comparable countries thanks to their oil royalties Or are these paradoxically a hindrance rather than a help The study of the economic history of the Middle East in Islamic times is notoriously underdeveloped This volume contains papers discussed at an international conference held at the School of Oriental and African Studies in 1967 together with three short critical essays which attempt to tie them together Some papers are specific contributions to research others survey wider areas The volume is not a comprehensive history or a systematic inventory but it is hoped that in addition to presenting a set of papers which are interesting in themselves it will give the reader a tolerable idea of the state of studies in the field
