Simulations in the Political Science Classroom Mark Harvey,James Fielder,Ryan Gibb,2022-08-31 This book is premised on the assumption that games and simulations provide welcome alternatives and supplements to traditional lectures and class discussions especially in political science classrooms where real world circumstances provide ideal applications of theory and policy prescriptions Implementing such an active learning program however is sometimes daunting to overburdened professors and teaching assistants This book addresses the challenges of using games and simulations in the political science classroom both online and in person Each chapter offers a game or simulation that politics teachers can use to teach course concepts and explains ways to execute it effectively In addition the authors in this volume make a proactive case for games and simulations Each chapter offers research to evaluate the effectiveness of the activity and pedagogical design best practices Thus the book not only serves as a game design resource but also offers demonstrable support for using games and simulations in the political science classroom Aimed at teachers at all levels from high school through college the book may be especially appealing to graduate students entering teaching for the first time and open to new teaching and learning approaches

Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO,2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not Back cover
