Scotts 42 Riding Mower Belt Diagram:

The Battleship Builders Constructing and Arming British Capital Ships Ian Buxton, Ian Johnston, 2013-05-08 The launch in 1606 of HMS Dreadnought the world's first all big gun battleship rendered all existing battle fleets obsolete but at the same time it wiped out the Royal Navy's numerical advantage so expensively maintained for decades Already locked in the same arms race with Germany Britain urgently needed to build an entirely new battle fleet of these larger more complex and more costly vessels In this she succeeded spectacularly in little over a decade fifty such ships were completed almost exactly double that of what Germany achieved It was only made possible by the company's vast industrial nexus of shipbuilders engine manufacturers armament fleets and specialist armour producers whose contribution to the Grand Fleet is too often ignored This heroic achievement and how it was done is the subject of this book It charts the rise of the large industrial conglomerates that were key to this success looks at the reaction to fast moving technical changes and analyses the politics of funding this vast national effort both before and beyond the Great War It also attempts to assess the true cost and value of the Grand Fleet in terms of the resources consumed And finally by way of contrast it describes the effects of the post war recession industrial contraction and the very different responses to rearmament in the run up to the Second World War
