Navigating the Post-Cold War World Jason A. Edwards, 2008-12-16 Jason A Edwards explores the various rhetorical choices and strategies employed by former President Bill Clinton to discuss foreign policy issues in a new post Cold War era Edwards argues that each American president has situated himself within the same foreign policy paradigm drawing upon the same set of ideas and utilizing the same basic vernacular to discuss foreign policy He describes how former presidents and President Clinton in particular made modifications to this paradigm leaving a rhetorical signature that tells us as much about the nature of their presidency as it does about the international environment they faced With the end of the Cold War came the end of a relatively stable international order This end sparked intense debates about the new direction of American foreign policy As Bill Clinton took office he developed a new lexicon of words in order to discuss America's changing role in the world and other major international issues of the time without being able to fall into Cold War era rhetoric By examining the nuances and unique contributions President Clinton made to American foreign policy rhetoric Edwards shows how his distinct rhetorical signature will influence future administrations
