Every Home a Distillery Sarah H. Meacham, 2009-10-12 In this original examination of alcohol production in early America Sarah Hand Meacham uncovers the crucial role women played in cidery and distilling in the colonial Chesapeake Her fascinating story is one defined by gender class technology and changing patterns of production Alcohol was essential to colonial life the region's water was foul milk was generally unavailable and tea and coffee were far too expensive for all but the very wealthy Colonists used alcohol to drink in cooking as a cleaning agent in beauty products and as medicine Meacham finds that the distillation and brewing of alcohol for these purposes traditionally fell to women Advice and recipes in such guidebooks as The Accomplish'd Lady's Delight demonstrate that women were the main producers of alcohol until the middle of the 18th century Men mostly small planters then supplanted women using new and cheaper technologies to make the region's cider ale and whiskey Meacham compares alcohol production in the Chesapeake with that in New England the middle colonies and Europe finding the Chesapeake to be far more isolated than even the other American colonies She explains how home brewers used new technologies such as small alembic stills and inexpensive cider pressing machines in their alcoholic enterprises She links the importation of coffee and tea in America to the temperance movement showing how the wealthy became concerned with alcohol consumption only after they found something less inebriating to drink Taking a few pages from contemporary guidebooks Every Home a Distillery includes samples of historic recipes and instructions on how to make alcoholic beverages American historians will find this study both enlightening and surprising The Sweetness of Life Eugene D. Genovese, 2017-10-05 American slaveholders used the wealth and leisure that slave labor provided to cultivate lives of gentility and refinement This study provides a vivid portrait of slaveholders at home and at play as they built a tragic world of both sweetness and slavery South Carolina, 2023-02-24 The Federal Writers Project creates an image of South Carolina of years past All of us at one time or another have had a strong desire to be able to get into a time machine and be transported magically to an earlier place and time Science has not yet produced for us such a time machine but the Federal Writers Project FWP a division of the Works Progress Administration did produce for prosperity guides to all of the old 48 states Using talented local researchers and writers the FWP created an image of America fifty plus years ago A reprint of the original South Carolina The WPA Guide to the Palmetto State is divided into three sections 19 essays on a variety of topics ranging from history to cookery detailed descriptions of the 11 towns in the state that had populations of more than 10 000 and 21 remarkably detailed guided tours to all sections of the state In addition to the original chapters there are two appendices updated highway numbers for each tour and a guide to getting off the present Interstate Highway System and picking up the guided tours South Carolina s Guide is very much a product of its times The essays and tours mince no words in describing the state s poverty or the reality of a world in which class and race played major roles For those who have studied and taught South Carolina history the old Guide has been an indispensable reference work Parts of it may be dated to some jaded modern eyes some phrases may be jarring to the post 1954 generation However the original South Carolina The WPA Guide to the Palmetto State was what its cover claimed it to be It accurately described the state as it was not as romantics wanted it to be Proceedings of the American Pharmaceutical Association at the Annual Meeting American Pharmaceutical Association.
