Whybrow, 2014-08-19 Performing Cities is an edited volume of contributions by a range of internationally renowned academics and performance makers from across the globe each one covering a particular city and examining it from the dynamic perspectives of performances occurring in cities and the city itself as performance

Interculturalism and Performance Now Charlotte McIvor, Jason King, 2018-12-29 This book is the first edited collection to respond to an undeniable resurgence of critical activity around the controversial theoretical term interculturalism in theatre and performance studies Long one of the field's most vigorously debated concepts intercultural performance has typically referred to the hybrid mixture of performance forms from different cultures typically divided along an East West or North South axis and its related practices frequently charged with appropriation exploitation or ill founded universalism New critical approaches since the late 2000s and early 2010s instead reveal a plethora of localized grassroots diasporic and historical approaches to the theory and practice of intercultural performance which make available novel critical and political possibilities for performance practitioners and scholars This collection consolidates and pushes forward reflection on these recent shifts by offering case studies from Asia Africa Australasia Latin America North America and Western Europe which debate the possibilities and limitations of this theoretical turn towards a new interculturalism

Performance and Civic Engagement Ananda Breed, Tim Prentki, 2017-11-17 This book explores civic engagement as a politically active encounter between institutions individuals and art practices that addresses the public sphere on a civic level across physical and virtual spaces Taking a multidisciplinary approach it tracks across the overlapping discourses of politics cultural geography and performance investigating how and why physical and digital spaces can be analysed and utilised to develop new art forms that challenge traditional notions of how performance is political and how politics are performative Across three sections Politicising Communities Applying Digital Agency and Performing Landscapes and Identities the ten chapters and three interviews cover a wide variety of international perspectives all informed by innovative ways of addressing the current crisis of social fragmentation through performance Providing access to many debates on the theory and practice of new media this book is of significance to readers from a broad set of academic disciplines including politics sociology geography and performance studies Performance and the Politics of Space Erika Fischer-Lichte, Benjamin Wihstutz, 2013 From its very beginnings theatre has been both an art and a public space shared by actors and spectators As a result its entity and history is intimately tied to politics a politics of inclusion and exclusion of distributions and placements of spatial appropriation and utopian concepts This collection examines what is at stake when a theatrical space is created and when a performance takes place it asks under what circumstances the topology of theatre becomes political The book approaches this issue from various angles taking theatre as a cultural paradigm for political dimensions of space in its respective historical context Visiting the political dimensions of theatrical space in both theatre history and contemporary performance the volume responds to the so called spatial turn in cultural and historical studies and questions a politics of aesthetics that is discussed in continental philosophy The book visits different levels and linkages between aesthetic theory and geography art and sociology architecture and political theory and geometry and history shedding new light on theatre politics and space thereby transforming this historically intertwined triad into a transdisciplinary theme Performing New Orleans Stuart Andrews, Patrick Duggan, 2025-08-20 Performing New Orleans examines the value of arts and culture in managing complex urban challenges offering new perspectives on how artistic and everyday performances can be pivotal modes of practicing resilience Through an exploration of understudied forms of performance in New Orleans Stuart Andrews and Patrick Duggan highlight the centrality of the city s arts ecosystems as a vital aspect of its ability to perform resiliency Performing New Orleans resists conventional definitions of arts practice instead it uses a diverse array of case studies to illustrate what arts practices are what they do and how they can enhance our understanding of people place and resilience The case studies in this volume range from playing in the streets to painting murals from tourist flourishes to the performative effect of infrastructure projects from the design and leadership of arts centers to the unfolding of festivals theater performances art installations and even public health messaging The authors also review critique and rethink resilience theory and the often problematic idea of being resilient Andrews and Duggan bring together ideas from art and architecture cultural geography hazard mitigation resilience theory sustainability theater and water management to explore performances of the city to radically expand our understanding of urban adaptability Performing New Orleans argues that a truly resilient city is one that recognizes arts and culture professionals as crucial critical innovators Art in the City, the City in Art Elisha Masemann, 2024-03-31 This Book examines an interplay between discourses on the city that stress the need for rational functional order and art s imaginative deviations from the topdown structures of urban life Moving between theory and praxis the book situates the city as both a concept and physical construct through which lives and possibilities are shaped or defined In response certain modalities of art create spontaneous non rational and playful interludes that risk escape from the urban apparatus and a hyper valorisation of rational order A three part framework is used to discuss this push pull dynamic and to assess the strategies of shock performative embodiment and intervention that emerged in post war art movements and in contemporary performance and participatory art practices The book examines how the disturbances introduced by artists throw the city construct into sharp relief making it visible and activating momentary encounters where new modes of expression can emerge This Book offers a new approach to interdisciplinary studies of art and urbanity The book aims to delineate how the city as concept and construct is made visible through artistic practice and in turn challenged or interrogated Students researchers and professionals with an interest in the interaction between art and urban studies will discover a new perspective on how urban conditions and issues have been addressed through artistic practice The book contributes to an evolving discourse in the urban humanities through an exposition of the city s default construct that is made visible or reimaged through visual art in public spaces Posthuman Pedagogies in Practice Annouchka

Bayley, 2018-02-13 This book investigates transdisciplinary arts based approaches to developing innovative and pertinent higher education pedagogy Introducing timely critical thinking strategies the author addresses some of the key issues facing educators today in an increasingly complex digital technological and ecological world The author combines emerging ideas in the New Materialism and Posthumanism schools of thought with arts based teaching and learning including Practice as Research for Social Science contexts thus exploring how this approach can be used to productively create new pedagogical strategies Drawing on a rich repertoire of real life examples the volume suggests transferrable routes into practice that are suitable for lecturers researchers and students This practical and innovative volume will appeal to researchers and practitioners interested in Posthuman and New Materialist theories and how these can be applied to the educational landscape in future New German Dance Studies Susan Manning, Lucia Ruprecht, 2012-06-15 New German Dance

Studies offers fresh histories and theoretical inquiries that resonate across fields of the humanities Sixteen essays range from eighteenth century theater dance to popular contemporary dances in global circulation In an exquisite trans Atlantic dialogue that demonstrates the complexity and multilayered history of German dance American and European scholars and artists elaborate on definitive performers and choreography focusing on three major thematic areas Weimar culture and its afterlife the German Democratic Republic and recent conceptual trends in theater dance Contributors are Maaïke Bleeker Franz Anton Cramer Kate Elswit Susanne Franco Susan Funkenstein Jens Richard Giersdorf Yvonne Hardt Sabine Huschka Claudia Jeschke Marion Kant Gabriele Klein Karen Mazingo Tresa Randall Gerald Siegmund and Christina Thurner Livcasting in Twenty-First-Century British Theatre Heidi Lucja Liedke, 2023-06-15 This significant contribution to the study of the live and recorded broadcasting of stage plays focuses on National Theatre Live a decade after its launch in 2009 Assessing livecasting through the concepts of spectacle materiality and engagement it examines the role played by audiences in livecasting Illustrated by in depth analyses of recent NT Live shows including A Midsummer Night s Dream 2019 Antony and

Cleopatra 2018 and Small Island 2019 the book is complemented by insights from practitioners involved in the making of the livecasts Finally livecasting is contextualized within recently emerged forms of Covidian virtual theatre during the pandemic in order to offer some thoughts on the future of the genre of theatrical performance Combining lively analyses of recent theatre performances with auto ethnographic accounts Heidi Lucja Liedke turns to 20th century thinkers such as Walter Benjamin and Bertolt Brecht in order to understand livecasting s place in a continuum of developments taking place on the borders of media film and performance for the past 100 years As well as embedding livecasting in its historical context of 19th century electrophone technology Liedke assesses its position in contemporary discourses on the meaning of theatre for spectators in the pre and post pandemic moment and points towards the form s future

Imagined Theatres Daniel Sack,2017-04-07 Imagined Theatres collects theoretical dramas written by some of the leading scholars and artists of the contemporary stage These dialogues prose poems and microfictions describe imaginary performance events that explore what might be possible and impossible in the theatre Each scenario is mirrored by a brief accompanying reflection asking what they might mean for our thinking about the theatre These many possible worlds circle around questions that include In what way is writing itself a performance How do we understand the relationship between real performances that engender imaginary reflections and imaginary conceptions that form the basis for real theatrical productions Are we not always imagining theatres when we read or even when we sit in the theatre watching whatever event we imagine we are seeing

Curating the Commons Katia Arfara,Aikaterini Arfara,2025-10-28 Since the 2008 financial crisis and Occupy movements around the globe artists have increasingly turned to socially engaged public art to create new models of artistic production and community engagement Curating the Commons examines this turn through an in depth study of performance centered public art presented in Athens and Piraeus Greece during the austerity years Extending from Henri Lefebvre s theory of social space Arfara examines art and social engagement in relation to the commons and self organized solidarity initiatives including performance photography film and sculptures that appeared in unexpected urban spaces to complicate notions of memory mobility and belonging These works all ask the question Who has the right to the city Combining her scholarly and curatorial work Arfara advocates for performance centered public art that resists processes of exclusion and segregation reclaiming public space as a commons By sharing critical insights Arfara immerses the reader in the working processes of artists and collectives showing how public art can address ecosocial concerns in aesthetic forms Curating the Commons offers a grounded perspective on the making of cutting edge socially engaged public artworks and contributes to the larger effort to craft more than human narratives in response to global events
