Narrative as Writing and Literacy Pedagogy for Preservice Elementary Teachers Nancy A. Wasser,2021-08-16 I just cannot write or I am not a good writer are familiar complaints from students in academia Many of them claim they cannot express themselves clearly in written text and their lack of this skill impedes them in their academic career In this book Nancy A Wasser argues that teachers can help solve this when they start viewing writing not as secondary to reading but as the equally important side of the same coin Those who cannot read will not be able to write Wasser explains how teaching and regular practicing of writing skills from an early age onwards helps children grow into students who are self aware of their voices By employing narrative as a process of learning to write and a way to read teachers can teach children the art of writing while also making children more aware of their own constructions of narrative Combining the focus on individual and group expression in writing lessons students can trace and reflect on their own life transformations through their writing process Good writers are not born that way but made through effort and practice Changes in curriculum may not only lead to better expressed citizens but also to more balance between teacher and children voices Uncommonly Good Ideas Sandra Murphy,Mary Ann Smith,2015-04-03 This innovative resource provides teachers with a road map for designing a comprehensive writing curriculum that meets Common Core State Standards The authors zero in on several big ideas that lead to and support effective practices in writing instruction such as integrating reading writing speaking and listening teaching writing as a process extending the range of the students writing spiraling and scaffolding a writing curriculum and collaborating These ideas are the cornerstone of best research based practices as well as the CCSS for writing The first chapter offers a complete lesson designed around teaching narrative writing and illustrates tried and true practices for teaching writing as a process The remaining chapters explore a broad range of teaching approaches that help students tackle different kinds of narrative informational and argumentative writing as well as complexities like audience and purpose Each chapter focuses on at least one of the uncommonly good ideas and illustrates how to create curricula around it Uncommonly Good Ideas includes model lessons and assignments mentor texts teaching strategies student writing and practical guidance for moving the ideas from the page into the classroom Building a Writing Community Marcia Sheehan Freeman,1995 Explains how to create the philosophical and physical environment needed to develop successful writing communities in which students learn practice and apply writing craft skills Literacy Assessment and Intervention for Classroom Teachers Beverly A.
