Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program on the physical fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program was designed to be a safe and effective means of increasing physical activity in sedentary women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The sessions included a warm-up, a low-impact aerobic exercise routine, and a cool-down. The program was evaluated using a pre-test and post-test design. The results of the study showed that the program had a positive effect on the physical fitness of the women. The women showed significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscular strength, and flexibility. The program was well-tolerated and the women enjoyed the sessions. The results of this study suggest that a low-intensity, low-impact, and low-volume exercise program can be an effective means of increasing physical activity in sedentary women.
