

Rock Cycle

In the earth so deep, rocks start to play,
With melting heat, they change in a way.
Magma rises, bubbling hot,
When it cools down, new rocks are sought.

Igneous forms, so strong and bold,
Weathered and worn, their stories told.
Into the earth, they crumble and sigh,
Turning to sediment, oh, my, oh, my!

With time and pressure, new rocks arise,
The rock cycle spins under sunny skies!

Geopoetry Dale Enggass, 2025-06-17 At its core geopoetics proposes that a connection between language and geology has become a significant development in post World War II poetics In Geopoetry Dale Enggass argues that certain literary works enact geologic processes such as erosion and deposition and thereby suggest that language itself is a geologic and not a solely human based process Elements of language extend past human control and open onto an inhuman dimension which raises the question of how literary works approach the representation of nonhuman realms Enggass examines the work of Clark Coolidge Robert Smithson Ed Dorn Maggie O Sullivan Jeremy Prynne Jen Bervin Christian Bök and Steve McCaffery and he finds that while many of these authors are not traditionally connected to ecocritical writing their innovations are central to ecocritical concerns In treating language as a geological material these authors interrogate the boundary between human and nonhuman realms and offer a model for a complex literary engagement with the Anthropocene
