Languages of Instruction for African Emancipation Birgit Brock-Utne,Rodney Kofi Hopson,2005

Languages of Instruction for African Emancipation is a collection of case studies from seven African countries poses questions such as What alternatives are there for educational language policies towards African emancipation What efforts have governments made to change the language policy in favour of African languages and how far have they succeeded What challenges do African learners face when it comes to current language of instruction policies The authors reject a language education policy that neglects the multilingualism existing in Africa that reinforces patterns of privilege that existed in the colonial era further entrenching the schism between the elite and the masses They give short shrift to the new justification of the unjustifiable status accorded to English in Africa as the language of globalisation suggesting that it is not relevant to the vast majority of African lives and their human development The sum of thoughts presented suggests that the answer to the language question provides the key to development challenges and further emancipation of the African peoples which it is argued is at the same time a question that will determine whether Africa will remain a recognisable and distinctive cultural component of humanity or whether Africans will cease to exist culturally as Africans

Ideophones Erhard Friedrich Karl Voeltz, Christa Kilian-Hatz, 2001-01-01 The present volume represents a selection of papers presented at the International Symposium on Ideophones held in January 1999 in St Augustin Germany They center around the following hypotheses Ideophones are universal and constitute a grammatical category in all languages of the world ideophones and similar words have a special dramaturgic function that differs from all other word classes they simulate an event an emotion a perception through language In addition to this unique function a good number of formal parallels can be observed The languages dealt with here display strikingly similar patterns of derivational processes involving ideophones An equally widespread common feature is the introduction of ideophones via a verbum dicendi or complementizer Another observation concerns the sound symbolic behavior of ideophones Thus the word formation of ideophones differs from other words in their tendency for iconicity and sound symbolism Finally it is made clear that ideophones are part of spoken language the language register where gestures are used rather than written language
