Abstract: This paper argues that an anti-discrimination law on the grounds of sexual orientation will contribute to a significant reduction in the number of workplace sexual harassment cases involving lesbian, gay, and bisexual workers. The law will protect workers from sexual harassment, regardless of the sexual orientation of the victim. Sexual harassment is defined as unwanted sexual advances or requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature, which creates a hostile or abusive work environment. The law will also protect workers from retaliation for reporting sexual harassment or for participating in an investigation. The law will be enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the Department of Labor (DOL).
