Bureau of Naval Personnel, 1953 Foundation Engineering Handbook Hsai-Yang Fang, 2013-06-29 More than ten years have passed since the first edition was published During that period there have been a substantial number of changes in geotechnical engineering especially in the applications of foundation engineering As the world population increases more land is needed and many soil deposits previously deemed unsuitable for residential housing or other construction projects are now being used. Such areas include problematic soil regions, mining subsidence areas, and sanitary landfills. To overcome the problems associated with these natural or man-made soil deposits, new and improved methods of analysis, design, and implementation are needed in foundation construction. As society develops and living standards rise, tall buildings, transportation facilities, and industrial complexes are increasingly being built. Because of the heavy design loads and the complicated environments, the traditional design concepts, construction materials, methods, and equipment also need improvement. Further, recent energy and material shortages have caused additional burdens on the engineering profession and brought about the need to seek alternative or cost-saving methods for foundation design and construction. Readers'

, Over 5 300 total pages MARINE RECON Reconnaissance units are the commander's eyes and ears on the battlefield. They are task organized as a highly trained six-man team capable of conducting specific missions behind enemy lines. Employed as part of the Marine Air Ground Task Force, reconnaissance teams provide timely information to the supported commander to shape and influence the battlefield. The varying types of missions a Reconnaissance team conduct depends on how deep in the battle space they are operating. Division Reconnaissance units support the close and distant battlespace, while Force Reconnaissance units conduct deep reconnaissance in support of a landing force. Common missions include but are not limited to: Plan, coordinate, and conduct amphibious ground reconnaissance and surveillance to observe, identify, and report enemy activity and collect other information of military significance. Conduct specialized surveying to include underwater reconnaissance and/or demolitions, beach permeability, and topography, routes, bridges, structures, urban/rural areas, helicopter landing zones, LZ, parachute drop zones, DZ, aircraft forward operating sites, and mechanized reconnaissance missions. When properly task organized, with other forces, equipment, or personnel assist in specialized engineer, radio, and other special reconnaissance missions.
