The Essential Delhi Cookbook Priti Narain, 2000. In the popular imagination, Delhi cuisine is most often associated with the Punjabi or Mughlai. In this book, the author seeks to dispel such a notion by presenting a rich and diverse selection of recipes drawn from the different communities who have made Delhi their home, including Baniya, the Khatri and the Kayasth. Spicy kababs and fragrant biryani, hot paranthas and korma, tangy chaat and sumptuous kulfi: the array of food is as delectable as it is eclectic in its origins and history. Drawn from different sources, including old cookery books, these are authentic recipes written in a manner that facilitates easy use and cover the entire range from starters and beverages to snacks and desserts.

Pinkerton's Sister Peter Rushforth, 2005. A sprawling stream of conscious novel set primarily in the head of Alice Pinkerton at the dawn of the twentieth century. Alice isn't yet ready for the new age; she's a vestige of Victorian times, a madwoman living on the third floor, not in the attic. She insists on her family's home. No one was as close to her as words on a page. Alice muses, and indeed, she relates more to characters from the novels of George Eliot, Charlotte Brontë, and Charles Reade than to the people who surround her, especially the thoroughly modern socialite Mrs. Albert Comstock, who represents everything Alice hates. Alice's doctor, who seeks to cure her of her malady, proclaims, "Imagination is an impediment to progress." For Alice, there's no more chilling sentiment.
