

RAILWAY
The Great Central Railway, 1860s
The Great Central Railway was a railway line in the Midlands of England, connecting London to the north. It was built by the Great Central Railway Company, which was formed in 1860. The line was built to provide a direct route from London to the north, bypassing the existing routes via the Midlands. The line was built in a hilly, wooded landscape, and the painting shows a group of men standing on the embankment, waving their hands. The scene is set in a hilly, wooded landscape with a railway line visible in the background.
