for Easy and Difficult Skills

BETTER-THAN-AVERAGE EFFECT ACROSS CULTURES

2

Abstract

Japanese and American college students rated themselves compared with their peers in terms of their ability to perform various skills. There were four easy skills for which people generally judge themselves to be better than their peers (the better-than-average effect) and four difficult skills for which people generally judge themselves to be worse than their peers (the worse-than-average effect). The American students showed a stronger better-than-average effect for easy skills—consistent with previous research—but they also showed a stronger worse-than-average effect for difficult skills. The latter result, in particular, seems inconsistent with the idea that Americans are more strongly motivated to be better than their peers. It is consistent, however, with an explanation based on cognitive egocentrism. Both the American and Japanese students thought more about their own abilities than about their peers' abilities, leading them to judge themselves as more extreme than their peers. But this tendency was stronger among the American students.

Narrative as Writing and Literacy Pedagogy for Preservice Elementary Teachers Nancy A. Wasser, 2021-08-16 I just cannot write or I am not a good writer are familiar complaints from students in academia Many of them claim they cannot express themselves clearly in written text and their lack of this skill impedes them in their academic career In this book Nancy A Wasser argues that teachers can help solve this when they start viewing writing not as secondary to reading but as the equally important side of the same coin Those who cannot read will not be able to write Wasser explains how teaching and regular practicing of writing skills from an early age onwards helps children grow into students who are self aware of their voices By employing narrative as a process of learning to write and a way to read teachers can teach children the art of writing while also making children more aware of their own constructions of narrative Combining the focus on individual and group expression in writing lessons students can trace and reflect on their own life transformations through their writing process Good writers are not born that way but made through effort and practice Changes in curriculum may not only lead to better expressed citizens but also to more balance between teacher and children voices

Writing the Classroom Stephen E. Neaderhiser, 2022-11-21 Writing the Classroom explores how faculty compose and use pedagogical documents to establish classroom expectations and teaching practices as well as to articulate the professional identities they perform both inside and outside the classroom The contributors to this unique collection employ a wide range of methodological frameworks to demonstrate how pedagogical genres even ones as seemingly straightforward as the class syllabus have lives extending well beyond the classroom as they become part of how college teachers represent their own academic identities advocate for pedagogical values and negotiate the many external forces that influence the act of teaching Writing the Classroom shines a light on genres that are often treated as two dimensional with purely functional purposes arguing instead that genres like assignment prompts course proposals teaching statements and policy documents play a fundamental role in constructing the classroom and the broader pedagogical enterprise within academia Writing the Classroom calls on experienced teachers and faculty administrators to critically consider their own engagement with pedagogical genres and offers graduate students and newer faculty insight into the genres that they may only now be learning to inhabit as they seek to establish their personal teacherly identities It showcases the rhetorical complexity of the genres written in the service of pedagogy not only for students but also for the many other audiences within academia that have a role in shaping the experience of teaching Contributors Michael Albright Lora Arduser Lesley Erin Bartlett Logan Bearden Lindsay Clark Dana Comi Zack K De Piero Matt Dowell Amy Ferdinandt Stolley Mark A Hannah Megan Knight Laura R Micciche Cindy Mooty Dustin Morris Kate Navickas Kate Nesbit Jim Nugent Lori A Ostergaard Cynthia Pengilly Jessica Rivera Mueller Christina Saidy Megan Schoen Virginia Schwarz Christopher Toth
