Defrost Mode (Freezer)

Most restaurant freezers have a defrost heater timer: The defrost heater melts any frost that has accumulated on the evaporator (cooling) coil.

Make sure all managers know the times that the defrost mode begins. Freezer temperatures need monitored during each shift.

If the freezer rises in temperatures and it's not occurring during the defrost modes, lock the freezer wait a few minutes to see if the temperature drops. Also, check the breaker to see if the switch tripped. If the breaker did not trip and the temperature is not dropping, call for repairs immediately. This could be a major loss of revenue.

Walk-in Refrigerator

During each shift, the manager should frequently check temperatures to avoid food waste or spoilage.

If the walk-in refrigerator rises in temperature above 40°F, lock it and observe the temperature. The fan motor should be running at all times. Also, check to see if the breaker tripped. If the temperature stays above 40°F, then call for repairs. This could also be a major loss of revenue.
