

Heart: Internal Structure

The heart is a muscular organ that pumps blood throughout the body. It is located in the chest cavity, between the lungs. The heart is divided into four chambers: the right atrium, right ventricle, left atrium, and left ventricle. The right side of the heart receives deoxygenated blood from the body, and the left side pumps oxygenated blood to the rest of the body.

The heart is made up of muscle tissue, which is responsible for contracting and relaxing to pump blood. The heart is also covered by a double-layered sac called the pericardium. The heart is connected to the rest of the body by a network of blood vessels called the cardiovascular system. The heart is a vital organ, and its failure can lead to death.

The heart is a complex organ with a highly developed electrical system that coordinates its pumping action. The heart is also capable of regenerating its own cells, which allows it to maintain its function throughout life.
