Judicial institutionalization of integration processes Ricardo Caichiolo, 2016-09-07 The focus of this book is the judicial institutionalization of integration processes through the development of dispute settlement mechanisms more specifically in the Common Market of the South MERCOSUR to date the most important regional bloc in Latin America The bloc has been in existence since 1991 and has positioned itself as one of the potential regional blocs for trade and investment while becoming one of the important actors in the international community However its achievements have been tainted by the gaps and problems attached to the core foundation of the regional bloc MERCOSUR has been suffering or experiencing internal disputes and disunity due to its complex and low institutionalization a situation which can be seen as being paradoxical Its current Dispute Settlement Mechanism is subject to uncertainty and doubt since its own framework is also under internal and external criticism There has been a series of protocols made in order to tackle the problems of the DSM and to further fix the problems that hinder the cooperation as well as the productivity of MERCOSUR s intra organisation all guided by intergovernmental decision making As such this book seeks to tackle the concept of regionalism and the possible models which have been used or have influenced the establishment of MERCOSUR while discussing the different aspects and developments of each intra organisation This is done in order to evaluate the nature of the problem and future developments that could take place The book also focuses on the prevalence of politicization in MERCOSUR and the pre eminence of Presidential Diplomacy over the path of regional integration which influence the DSM of MERCOSUR and possible developments that might occur in the near future

Transnational Narratives and Regulation of GMO Risks Giulia Claudia Leonelli, 2021-11-04 This book provides an innovative insight into the regulatory conundrum of genetically modified organisms GMOs deploying transnational legal analysis as a methodological framework to explore the most controversial area of risk governance The book deconstructs hegemonic and counter hegemonic transnational narratives on the governance of GMO risks cutting across US law EU law the WTO Agreement on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures and hybrid standard setting regimes Should uncertain risks be run unless adverse effects have been conclusively established and should regulators only act where this is cost benefit effective Should risk managers make a convincing case that a product or process is safe enough for the relevant uncertain risks to be socially acceptable How can intractable transnational regulatory conflicts be solved The book complements a close analysis of regulatory frameworks and case law with a more encompassing perspective on the political socio economic and distributional implications of different approaches to the regulation of health and environmental risks at times of globalisation The GMO deadlock thus becomes a lens through which to investigate the underlying value systems goals and impacts of transnational discourses on risk governance Against this backdrop the normative strand of analysis points to the limited ability of science and procedural deliberation to generate authentic agreement and to identify normatively legitimate solutions in the absence of pre existing shared perspectives

Mitochondria: Hubs of Cellular Signaling, Energetics and Redox Balance Miguel A. Aon, Amadou K. S. Camara, 2017-08-11 Poised at the convergence of most catabolic and anabolic pathways mitochondria are the center of heterotrophic aerobic life representing a hub in the overall metabolic network of cells The energetic functions performed by mitochondria face the unavoidable redox hurdle of handling huge amounts of oxygen while keeping its own as well as the cellular redox environment under control Reactive oxygen species ROS are produced in the respiratory chain as a result of the energy supplying function of mitochondria Originally considered an unavoidable by product of oxidative phosphorylation ROS have become crucial signaling molecules when their levels are kept within physiological range This occurs when their production and scavenging are balanced within mitochondria and cells Mitochondria generated hydrogen peroxide can act as a signaling molecule within mitochondria or in the cytoplasm affecting multiple networks that control for example cell cycle stress response cell migration and adhesion energy metabolism redox balance cell contraction and ion channels However under pathophysiological conditions excessive ROS levels can happen due to either overproduction overwhelming of antioxidant defenses or both Under oxidative stress detrimental effects of ROS include oxidation of protein lipids and nucleic acids mitochondrial depolarization and calcium overload and cell wide oscillations mediated by ROS induced ROS release mechanisms Mitochondrial dysfunction is central in the pathogenesis of numerous human maladies including cardiomyopathies and neurodegeneration Diseases characterized by altered nutrient metabolism such as diabetes and cancer exhibit elevated ROS levels These may contribute to pathogenesis by increasing DNA mutation affecting regulatory signaling and transcription and promoting inflammation Under metabolic stress several ionic channels present in the inner and outer mitochondrial membranes can have pro life and death effects In the present E book based on the Frontiers Research Topic entitled Mitochondria Hubs of cellular signaling energetics and redox balance

we address one of the fundamental questions that the field of ROS biology faces today how do mitochondria accomplish a reliable energy provision and at the same time keep ROS levels within physiological non harming limits but crucial for cellular signaling function Additionally and within the perspective of mitochondria as signaling energetic hubs in the extensive cellular metabolic network we ask how can their collective dynamics scale from the subcellular to the cellular tissue and organ levels to affect function in health and disease
