Working with indigenous knowledge Fhumulani M. Mulaudzi, Rachel T. Lebesse, 2022 The aim of the book is to assist both local and international scholars in articulating the scholarly discourse on indigenous health attitudes practices and experiences The indigenous lens that was used to generate and disseminate indigenous knowledge in this book will strengthen indigenous scholarship thus making it accessible to a wider audience In addition the information shared in this book will add value for scholars and assist them with the indigenous knowledge needed to address sustainable development goals This book is timeous and topical as the discourse on the decolonisation of the curriculum is widely debated in the higher education space The discourse on the scholarship of indigenous knowledge as the tacit local knowledge that stems from cultural practices within communities has not been well articulated in the current health science education milieu Indigenous knowledge has remained overlooked and undermined for a very long time and the information remains untapped in local communities The scholars who conducted the research on which this book is based unearthed a wealth of knowledge which was tacit in nature and translated it into implicit knowledge that can be documented and shared with other scholars globally This knowledge will assist health care scholars in benefiting from knowledge practices and cultural beliefs that will assist them in health care planning teaching evidence based practice and further research

Indigenous Technology Knowledge Systems Mishack T. Gumbo, P. John Williams, 2023-07-21 There has been a growing interest in indigenous knowledge systems and research This interest has been mainly triggered by the need to decolonize education as a response to the colonial onslaught on indigenous knowledge and people Research has however concentrated on the generality of the indigenous knowledge system rather than on its related dimensions One area that has suffered a lack of attention is indigenous conceptions of science technology engineering and mathematics STEM despite the unquestionable evidence of STEM in indigenous contexts Most STEM is presented by colonial establishments and representations especially in developed modern urban contexts which portray STEM as a colonial construct This book focuses on indigenous technological knowledge systems education ITKSE Indigenous people have been at the front of technological developments from pre colonial times The list of precolonial industries science and technology is extensive including blacksmithing wood carving textile weaving and dyeing leather works beadworks pottery making architecture agricultural breeding metal working salt production gold smithing copper smithing leather crafting soap making bronze casting canoe building brewing glass making and agriculture for example In some parts of the world such as Africa and Australia these technologies still exist ITKSE should not be left to exist outside of the technology education curriculum and classroom as it can benefit both indigenous students who have been denied learning about what is relevant to them and non indigenous students These cultural groups can expand their knowledge of technology by learning both ITKSE and Western technological knowledge systems education WTKSE ITKSE also presents opportunities for technology teachers to reflect on and revisit their depth of technological knowledge pedagogies and assessment The intent of this book is transformational in the sense that it brings decolonial and indigenous perspectives into the technology education context It extends technology education in the sense that it will not only influence Western minded architects artisans designers etc but encourage indigenous mindedness as well

Community-based adaptation Hannah Reid,2017-10-02 Community based adaptation CBA to climate change is based on local priorities needs knowledge and capacities Early CBA initiatives were generally implemented by non government organisations NGOs and operated primarily at the local level Many used bottom up participatory processes to identify the climate change problem and appropriate responses Small localised stand alone initiatives are insufficient to address the scale of challenges climate change will bring however The causes of vulnerability such as market or service access or good governance also often operate beyond the project level Larger organisations and national governments have therefore started to implement broader CBA programmes which provide opportunities to scale up responses and integrate CBA into higher levels of policy and planning This book shows that it is possible for CBA to remain centred on local priorities but not necessarily limited to work implemented at the local level Some chapters address the issue of mainstreaming CBA into government policy and planning processes or into city or sectoral level plans e g on agriculture Others look at how gender and children s issues should be mainstreamed into adaptation planning itself and others describe how tools can be applied and finance delivered for effective mainstreaming This book was published as a special issue of Climate and Development
