Under-Representation in the Engineering and Computing Professions: Fresh Perspectives on a Complex Problem

Kathleen Buse, Catherine Hill, Romila Singh, 2018-06-21 Understanding the many complexities that define gender inequality has been described by researchers as a grand challenge. Novel insights, innovation, a broader community to conduct research and to ascertain effective interventions are essential in the challenge to create organizations that are gender equal. As such, this Research Topic in Frontiers in Psychology addresses the underrepresentation of women in engineering and computing as a complex but solvable problem. This Research Topic seeks to inform the global community about advances in understanding the underrepresentation of women in engineering and computing with a focus on what enables change. Further, this Topic will promote fresh perspectives, innovative methodologies, and mixed method approaches important to accelerating the pace of change.

Responsive Teaching in Science and Mathematics Amy D. Robertson, Rachel Scherr, David Hammer, 2015-10-05 Answering calls in recent reform documents to shape instruction in response to students' ideas while integrating key concepts and scientific and/or mathematical practices, this text presents the concept of responsive teaching, synthesizes existing research, and examines implications for both research and teaching. Case studies across the curriculum from elementary school through adult education illustrate the variety of forms this approach to instruction and learning can take, what is common among them, and how teachers and students experience it. The cases include intellectual products of students' work in responsive classrooms and address assessment methods and issues. Many of the cases are supplemented with online resources (<http://www.studentsthinking.org/rtsm>) including classroom video and extensive transcripts, providing readers with additional opportunities to immerse themselves in responsive classrooms and to see for themselves what these environments look and feel like.
