Playing the Market Anne Fuchs,2021-11-22 The relationship between Johannesburg s Market Theatre and the economic and political forces of South Africa s apartheid regime was both complex and somewhat ambiguous The theatre s two founders Mannie Manim and Barney Simon however from idealistic beginnings managed to steer their experimental enterprise around pitfalls ranging from censorship boycotts and recuperation by big business to the difficulties encountered in finding black authors let alone black audiences If the place occupied by the Market institution in apartheid society is emphasized throughout the present study its contribution to the aesthetic of resistance is also underlined through detailed criticism of the plays and authors dominating the theatre Pieter Dirk Uys Barney Simon s workshop plays and among others Black Consciousness plays are subjected to various methods of theatre performance analysis The reckoning that had to come in the early 1990s revealed itself as globally positive the reasons for this may be found in the updated concluding part of Playing the Market which is composed of more general essays including one on the vibrant Junction Avenue Theatre Company on how the theatre scene in contemporary South Africa started to change A postscript reveals more specific aspects of the Market situation in the late 1990s when its hegemony in the New South Africa was already being questioned

The New York Times Book Review ,1992-10 Presents extended reviews of noteworthy books short reviews essays and articles on topics and trends in publishing literature culture and the arts Includes lists of best sellers hardcover and paperback Relating Narratives Adriana Cavarero, 2014-02-25 Relating Narratives is a major new work by the philosopher and feminist thinker Adriana Cavarero First published in Italian to widespread acclaim Relating Narratives is a fascinating and challenging new account of the relationship between selfhood and narration Drawing a diverse array of thinkers from both the philosophical and the literary tradition from Sophocles and Homer to Hannah Arendt Karen Blixen Walter Benjamin and Borges Adriana Cavarero's theory of the narratable self shows how narrative models in philosophy and literature can open new ways of thinking about formation of human identities By showing how each human being has a unique story that can be told about them Adriana Cavarero inaugurates an important shift in thinking about subjectivity and identity which relies not upon categorical or discursive norms but rather seeks to account for who each one of us uniquely is

Convergences and Interferences, 2016-09-12 How does one imagine plurality How does one find new strategies for writing diversity and polyphony How does one read the most challenging creative and critical works of the present time This bi lingual volume of twelve English and eight French papers proposes to breach linguistic critical frontiers by placing careful analysis of texts from different language traditions in a multi lingual and multi cultural dialogue In this collection of theoretically and politically aware close readings of contemporary cultural production the focus of analysis rests on the multiple and complex global convergences and interferences of cultural influences The collection foregrounds the work of innovative writers who seek to express the ungraspable presence of cultural newness at the same time as situating themselves in the richness of detail of local lives This volume most particularly finds a balance of critical approach between the everyday attempts at negotiation and survival and the insight brought to the reader by postcolonial syncretic and feminist theoretical analysis Trauma, Memory, and Narrative in the Contemporary South African Novel, 2012-01-01 The contributions to this volume probe the complex relationship of trauma memory and narrative By looking at the South African situation through the lens of trauma they make clear how the psychic deformations and injuries left behind by racism and colonialism cannot be mended by material reparation or by simply reversing economic and political power structures Western trauma theories as developed by scholars such as Caruth van der Kolk Herman and others are insufficient for analysing the more complex situation in a postcolony such as South Africa This is because Western trauma concepts focus on the individual traumatized by a single identifiable event that causes PTSD Post Traumatic Stress Disorder What we need is an understanding of trauma that sees it not only as a result of an identifiable event but also as the consequence of an historical condition in the case of South Africa that of colonialism and more specifically of apartheid For most black and coloured South Africans the structural violence of apartheid's laws were the existential condition under which they had to exist The living conditions in the townships pass laws relocation and racial segregation affected great parts of the South African population and were responsible for the collective traumatization of several generations This trauma however is not an unclaimed and unclaimable experience Postcolonial thinkers who have been reflecting on the experience of violence and trauma in a colonial context writing from within a Fanonian tradition have on the contrary believed in the importance of reclaiming the past and of transcending mechanisms of victimization and resentment so typical of traumatized consciousnesses Narration and the novel have a decisive role to play here Breaking Barriers C.N. van der Merwe, 2023-10-16 Elsa Joubert's The Long Journey of Poppie Nongena, 1981
