

CHAPTER 1

OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT

CHAPTER LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- 1. *Describe what the operations function is and how it relates to other business functions. Operations can be viewed as a transformation process that converts inputs into outputs of greater value. Operations management is the study of processes directly related to the creation and distribution of goods and services. Increasingly, these operations are taking place outside of the boundaries of a traditional enterprise. Thus, while today's managers need to understand how to efficiently manage operations within their own firm, they also need to develop skills in coordinating operations across a global supply chain. This text teaches students how to analyze processes, ensure quality, create value, and manage the flow of information, products, and services across a network of customers, enterprises, and supply chain partners. Operations is the technical core or "hub" of the organization, interacting with the other functional areas and suppliers to produce goods and provide services for customers.
- 2. *Discuss the key factors that have contributed to the evolution of operations and the initiation of supply chain management. Operations management did not really begin until the Industrial Revolution. Before then, products were made by skilled craftpersons and their apprentices, one at a time. With the rise of factories, though, came an increased division of labour, where workers were only responsible for one small part of the total production process. For many years, factories were dominated by the concept of mass production, but this eventually gave way to the realization that production should be tied to customer demands (the quality revolution). The field of supply chain management was born to manage the flow of information, products, and services across a network of customers, enterprises, and supply chain partners.
- 3. *Discuss how and why businesses operate globally and the roles and the roles China and India play in the current global market. Two-thirds of today's businesses operate globally through global markets, global operations, global financing, and global supply chains. Many companies are now outsourcing much of their production and service functions to other countries. China accounts for 20% of the world's population and is the world's largest manufacturer. India, on the other hand, is known as the world's service provider. India has an enormous resource of highly skilled engineers, scientists, and technically trained workers available at less than half the cost of those located in developed countries.
- 4. *Calculate and interpret productivity measures used for measuring competitiveness. Competitiveness has been defined by the OECD as "the degree to which a nation can produce goods and services that meet the test of international markets while simultaneously maintaining or expanding the real incomes of its citizens." The most common measure of competitiveness is productivity, which is the ratio of input to output.
