

Sample Autobiographical Essay

My name is Jeremy Maggi. I am a teacher at Orange Glen High School in Escondido, California. I am writing an autobiographical essay, a story about an event in my life and how it changed me. I am writing about a scary meeting I had with a rattlesnake when I was younger to show what I learned and to tell how this event was important to me.

It all happened one summer day in 1995 when I was ten years old. At that time, I was living in Valley Center, California with my parents and my brother. Our house was out in the country and there were many wild plants and animals, and I loved to go on walks with my father through the wilderness. On that day, my father, my younger brother, and I were taking a walk in the bushes outside my house. I wanted to lead, so I walked in front, my brother followed me, and my father was in the back. It was a beautiful day when we started walking; the deep blue sky was above us, the sun shined on us from over our heads, and all around you could hear the buzz of insects and the rustle of the wind on the leaves of the beautiful green bushes. I could smell the lovely smell of the summer flowers all around me.

Suddenly, and without warning, my father rushed to the front and pushed me aside. "Hey! What the heck!" I thought. But, just then, I heard a terrible buzz from where I had just been about to step. I looked and I saw a giant, red diamond-back rattlesnake in the path where I had been walking! His rattle was shaking and he was very angry. I could see his tongue flick in and out of his mouth. His narrow eyes looked at me. I felt my heart pounding in my chest. The cold wind blew on my sweating skin. Now I knew why my dad had pushed me.

We sat there for a while because we didn't want the snake to strike and attack us, and the snake stayed there, too, because he was afraid of us also. We called to our neighbor, Ken, who happened to be out, and he came with a shovel to kill the snake. Clang! With one hit he cut off the snake's head. Ken grabbed the snake by the tail and carried it back home, its blood still dripping on the ground. When he got home, he skinned it and ate it up. Yum! Everything turned out all right after all.

Even though it has been many years, this story still stays in my mind. I remember that day a lot, and I am thankful that my dad saved me from being bitten by the snake. I also learned that I should be more careful when I am walking out in the wild and treat animals with respect. That is why this was an important event in my life.

Description from <http://www.amazon.com> April 19 2012 Setting the Moral Compass Cheshire Calhoun, 2004 Setting the Moral Compass brings together the largely unpublished writings of 19 women moral philosophers whose work has contributed to the re setting of the compass of moral philosophy since the 1980s Ethics Teaching in Higher Education

Daniel Callahan, Sissela Bok, 2012-12-06 A concern for the ethical instruction and formation of students has always been a part of American higher education Yet that concern has by no means been uniform or free from controversy The centrality of moral philosophy in the undergraduate curriculum during the mid 19th Century gave way later during that era to the first signs of increasing specialization of the disciplines By the middle of the 20th Century instruction in ethics had by and large become confined almost exclusively to departments of philosophy and religion Efforts to introduce ethics teaching in the professional schools and elsewhere in the university often met with indifference or outright hostility The past decade has seen a remarkable resurgence of the interest in the teaching of ethics at both the undergraduate and the professional school levels Beginning in 1977 The Hastings Center with the support of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the Carnegie Corporation of New York undertook a systematic study of the state of the teaching of ethics in American higher education

Comfort, Abigail Scharf, 2025-05-07 Teaching Literature in the World Language Classroom presents a five stage methodology for teaching literature in language curriculum that repurposes Bloom's original and revised taxonomy to promote the language acquisition process and spark other types of learning The first step of text selection preparation and initiation asks students to recognize familiar words structures and concepts contextualize the reading and remember the main details of the text The second stage of beginning literary analysis gets target language learners to describe identify and understand the basic elements of plot character setting and narration The third phase of intermediate literary analysis prompts students to interpret analyze and examine major themes key passages and the overall commentary The fourth step of advanced literary analysis teaches students to synthesize multiple and conflicting interpretations compare assigned texts across units or themes and evaluate works through essay writing The fifth stage of reflective and creative engagement challenges students to relate the assigned texts to themselves through personal and intercultural reflection create new artistic works and produce unique texts in the target language The concluding chapter showcases all five stages of the methodology by applying them to a sample text thereby inviting world language educators to assess the potential usefulness of Comfort and Scharf's approach to their own language courses This is an ideal resource for world language educators teaching literature as well as undergraduate and graduate education students focusing on target language literature instruction and its role in the language acquisition process

Resources in Education, 1998-05 Being Yourself Diana Tietjens Meyers, 2004-02-23

Being yourself living a life that is truly your own that expresses your unique personality and your distinctive values Many people want to live such a life Being Yourself asks what it takes to do so It examines questions about the self the individual who acts together with questions about self expression the relations between the self and action It explains self knowledge and self direction in terms of a repertory of skills that gives people insight into who they are who they want to be and how they want to engage with the world Unlike other accounts of self and action Being Yourself takes into account the multidimensionality of the self embodiment interpersonal ties nonconscious desires and enculturation as well as rationality It accents the ways in which atypical emotional responses empathy and oppositional imagery can contribute to moral understanding It argues that repressive regimes cannot completely crush people's determination to live lives of their own but it shows why it is vital to seek social changes that dismantle obstacles to this kind of life
