Strategic Decision-Making in Presidential Nominations Kenny J. Whitby, 2014-01-01 Seeks to understand and explain the behavior of party elites during the 2008 Democratic Party presidential race What is the dominant force in presidential nomination campaigns Are nomination outcomes decided largely by the political party or by the candidates and their activities In Strategic Decision Making in Presidential Nominations Kenny J Whitby aims to provide some answers to these important questions focusing on the closely contested 2008 race between Senators Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama It was this race that spotlighted the role played by superdelegates the unpledged party elites who were added to the nomination process in the 1980s Whitby s central argument is that superdelegates are strategic actors and their endorsements are a response to a variety of demographic institutional and campaign factors While some weigh in early with an endorsement many adopt a wait and see approach Using a novel framework generally known as survival analysis Whitby provides us with a method for understanding when and why party elites decide to chime in on their presidential nomination campaign
