Non Fiction Stories For High School Students:

Using Graphic Novels in the English Language Arts Classroom William Boerman-Cornell, Jung Kim, 2020-10-01 Shortlisted for the UK Literacy Association's Academic Book Award 2021 There is an increasing trend in teachers using graphic novels to get their students excited about reading and writing using both original stories and adaptations of classic works by authors such as Homer Shakespeare and the Brontes However there is surprisingly little research available about which pedagogies and classroom practices are proven to be effective This book draws on cutting edge research surveys and classroom observations to provide a set of effective methods for teaching with graphic novels in the secondary English language arts classroom These methods can be applied to a broad base of uses ranging from understanding literary criticism critical reading multimodal composition to learning literary devices like foreshadowing and irony The book begins by looking at what English language arts teachers hope to achieve in the classroom It then considers the affordances and constraints of using graphic novels to achieve these specific goals using some of the most successful graphic novels as examples including Maus Persepolis The Nameless City and American Born Chinese and series such as Manga Shakespeare Finally it helps the teacher navigate through the planning process to figure out how to best use graphic novels in their own classroom Drawing on their extensive teaching experience the authors offer examples from real classrooms suggested lesson plans and a list of teachable graphic novels organized by purpose of teaching

Rebirth of Rhetoric Richard Andrews, 2012-05-16 Rebirth of Rhetoric brings together contributions from several fields to provide a forum in which a unifying theory for language and literature studies can be debated The book does not aim to resurrect classical Renaissance rhetoric but to remake it within a contemporary context The context of texts both spoken and written is one of the main emphases of this collection whether it is the ideology informing the text or the way in which a text is transformed by its audience The book also aims to present a range of practical approaches to the study of texts of all kinds literary televisual film and photography It also argues the case for developments in the Arts and Humanities which will bring together people working in Education Linguistics Composition Literature and Cultural Studies

,1915 The Story of Iowa William John Petersen,1952 Corpora in the Foreign Language Classroom ,2015-07-14

The papers published in this volume were originally presented at the Sixth International Conference on Teaching and Language Corpora 4 7 July 2004 Granada Spain and reflect the latest developments that have taken place in the field of the teaching applications of text corpora with a special emphasis on their use in the foreign language classroom The book is divided into three main sections The first section sets the scene for what this collection of essays aims to be It deals with the issue of what corpus linguistics can do not only for the understanding of the nature of language itself but also for so fundamental and miraculous a matter such as language learning and language acquisition The second section tackles the issues of corpus design and corpus exploitation and provides the reader with a great variety of evidence in favour of corpora exploitation for the building of a successful teaching environment The final section deals with practical applications of corpora in the foreign language classroom Although each of the papers here reports particular experiences in very different teaching and learning contexts as a whole they show that corpora can be used on the spot in a language teaching context by teachers and learners without extensive training in computational tools and studies of linguistics features can be tailored to specific pedagogic context and learning requirements The book represents a solid contribution to linguistic studies and language teaching and it is a good example of the diversity of the scientific lines in which corpus linguistics is involved at the present moment
