People, Planet and Profit Samuel O. Idowu, Abubakar S. Kasum, 2016-05-13 It is no longer the case that it is only society which benefits from CSR actions A corporation actually helps itself when operating sustainably and does well because of its triple bottom line actions The editors of People Planet and Profit believe that whilst Corporate Social Responsibility is by now a familiar concept to academics or practitioners insufficient attention has been paid to the end product of CSR in practice which they define in terms of social and economic developmental effect The contributions in this edited volume explain the developmental aspect of CSR from a conceptual perspective and provide empirical evidence of the impact of CSR delivery on stakeholders in different corners of the World The emphasis is on what corporations take from and give back to their stakeholders whilst trying to behave in a corporately responsible fashion Stakeholders including employees customers host communities governments and NGOs have diverse interests and expectations of CSR This gives rise to questions about whether the activities corporations support are the ones today's stakeholders need whether the CSR programmes being delivered are adequate and about the relationship between the corporations view of what constitutes CSR and that of the supposed beneficiaries This book offers thoughtful answers to these questions and assesses the outcomes of corporate activities both in developed and developing countries and regions in terms of economic progress and social and political advancement

The Creation of Markets for Ecosystem Services in the United States Mattijs van Maasakkers, 2016-11-01 The Creation of Markets for Ecosystem Services in the United States is a detailed analysis of the most advanced efforts to create markets for ecosystem services in the United States With the help of in depth case studies of three well known attempts to create such markets in the Chesapeake Bay watershed the Ohio River basin and the Willamette River basin the book explains why very few of these markets have actually succeeded even after close to two decades of much scholarly enthusiasm significant federal funding and concerted efforts by NGOs government agencies and private businesses Based on interviews policy analysis and participatory observation three features of markets for ecosystem services emerge as particularly problematic First the logic of displacement or the idea that particular elements of an ecosystem can be separated and traded across landscapes or watersheds runs counter to political interests environmental beliefs and people's connections to specific places The second problem is that of measurement Quantification methods embed a range of often contentious assumptions and decisions about what counts when restoring ecosystems The third problem is related to participation in environmental decision making

Climate Change, Vulnerability and Migration S.

Irudaya Rajan, R. B. Bhagat, 2017-09-22 This book highlights how climate change has affected migration in the Indian subcontinent. Drawing on field research, it argues that extreme weather events such as floods, droughts, cyclones, cloudbursts, as well as sea level rise, desertification, and declining crop productivity have shown higher frequency in recent times and have depleted bio-physical diversity and the capacity of the ecosystem to provide food and livelihood security. The volume shows how the socio-economically poor are worst affected in these circumstances and resort to migration to survive. The essays in the volume study the role of remittances sent by migrants to their families in environmentally fragile zones in providing an important cushion and adaptation capabilities to cope with extreme weather events. The book looks at the socio-economic and political drivers of migration, different forms of mobility, mortality and morbidity levels in the affected population, and discusses mitigation and adaptation strategies. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of environment and ecology, migration and diaspora studies, development studies, sociology and social anthropology, governance and public policy, and politics.
