Hax,2009-11-27 Strategy is the most central issue in management It has to do with defining the purpose of an organization understanding the market in which it operates and the capabilities the firm possesses and putting together a winning plan There are many influential frameworks to help managers undertake a systematic reflection on this issue The most dominant approaches are Michael Porter s Competitive Strategy and the Resource Based View of the Firm popularized by Gary Hamel and C K Prahalad Arnaldo Hax argues there are fundamental drawbacks in the underlying hypotheses of these approaches in that they define strategy as a way to achieve sustainable competitive advantage This line of thinking could be extremely dangerous because it puts the competitor at the center and therefore anchors you in the past establishes success as a way of beating your competitors and this obsession often leads toward imitation and congruency The result is commoditization which is the worst outcome that could possibly happen to a business The Delta Model is an extremely innovative view of strategy It abandons all of these assumptions and instead puts the customer at the center By doing that it allows us to be truly creative separating ourselves from the herd in pursuit of a unique and differentiated customer value proposition Many years of intense research at MIT supported by an extensive consulting practice have resulted in development of powerful new concepts and practical tools to guide organizational leaders into a completely different way of looking at strategy including a new way of doing customer segmentation and examining the competencies of the firm with an emphasis on using the extended enterprise as a primary way of serving the customer This last concept means that we cannot play the game alone that we need to establish a network among suppliers the firm the customers and complementors firms that are in the business of developing products and services that enhance our own offering to the customer Illustrated
