Sovereignty and

Contestation Keith Cherry, 2025-06-30 For centuries western political thought has addressed the problem of pluralism primarily through the prism of state sovereignty Sovereignty and Contestation explores how contemporary pluralism is shaped by concepts of state sovereignty and how particular practices of pluralism are challenging sovereignty in turn The book presents a unique comparison of Indigenous Settler relations in Canada with Union State relations in the European Union By placing Indigenous peoples alongside European nations as equal agents in a transnational field of action the book connects disparate literatures on sub state and supra state pluralism Using an interdisciplinary and practice centred approach Keith Cherry explores how political legal and economic practices co generate unique blends of sovereignty and pluralism in each setting offering an account of pluralism that significantly expands on traditional political science accounts Ultimately the book identifies two sets of practices that have played key roles facilitating pluralism in both Canada and Europe interpenetrating institutions and conditional authority claims Cherry considers the conditions under which these practices are most likely to emerge and to flourish He concludes that such practices are most successful where all parties can contest the terms and content of their relationships and where all parties need one another In doing so Sovereignty and Contestation highlights how contestability and mutual need provide novel criteria through which practices of pluralism can be assessed and developed

The Play of Conscience in Shakespeare's England Jade Standing, 2023-12-29 Having a conscience distinguishes humans from the most advanced AI systems Acting in good conscience consulting one's conscience and being conscience wracked are all aspects of human intelligence that involve reckoning deriving general laws from particular inputs and vice versa and judgement contemplating the relationship of the reckoning system to the world While AI developers have mastered reckoning they are still working towards the creation of judgement This book sheds light on the reckoning and judgement of conscience by demonstrating how these concepts are explored in Everyman Doctor Faustus The Merchant of Venice and Hamlet Academic student or general interest readers discover the complexity and multiplicity of the early modern concept of conscience which is informed by the scholastic intellectual tradition juridical procedures of the court of Chancery the practical advice of Protestant casuistry and Reformation theology The aims are to examine the rubrics for thinking through regulating and judging actions that define the various consciences of Shakespeare s day to use these rubrics to interpret questions of truth and action in early modern plays and to offer insights into what it is about conscience that developers want to grasp to eliminate the difference between human and non human intelligences and achieve true AI

Simultaneously the closure of local media outlets across the country has left many areas without access to regional news compounded the distance between media and publics and further eroded civic engagement Despite the looming crisis in journalism a research practice gap plagues the news industry This book argues that an underappreciated factor in the news crisis is a potentially symbiotic relationship between journalism studies and the industry that it researches As this book contends scholars must think about their work in a public context and journalists too need to listen to media scholars and take the research that they do seriously Including contributions from journalists and academics Journalism Research That Matters offers journalists a guide on what they need to know and journalism scholars a call to action for what kind of research they can do to best help the news industry reckon with disruption The book looks at new research developments surrounding audience behavior social networks and journalism business models the challenges that scholars face in making their research available to the public and to journalists the financial survival of quality news and information and blind spots in the way that researchers and journalists do their work especially around race diversity and inequality A final section includes contributions from journalists about how researchers can better engage on the ground with newsrooms and media professionals
