Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were 15 men, 40 to 50 years old, who had been sedentary for at least 10 years. They were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise, 3 times a week, at 70% of the maximum HR. The control group did not exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during a maximal exercise test at the beginning and at the end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and HRR of the subjects. The HR at rest decreased from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the HRR increased from 28 to 32 beats per minute. The HR at maximal exercise also decreased from 178 to 172 beats per minute, and the HRR at maximal exercise increased from 106 to 110 beats per minute. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

24. If you're using the `afs` multi-mount method, add `afs` to the `mountmnt` list. If you're using the `afs` multi-mount method, the `mountmnt` list is optional. This is because the `afs` multi-mount method is the only one that supports the `afs` multi-mount method.
25. Use the `mountmnt` list to mount the `afs` multi-mount method.
26. Use the `mountmnt` list to mount the `afs` multi-mount method.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light-emitting devices. Likewise, there are also long periods of complete darkness in the case of the forest.
- Several measures therefore will come with the use of the standard time specifications, the length of the season may differ depending on the local weather conditions.
- The end of the season is therefore, in many cases, longer than the actual end of the growing period, leading to a longer season.
- However, this is not suitable for these periods of growth, because the end of the season is not the end of the season.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will want to produce more of the output, and if the price falls, the producer will want to produce less of the output.
