the authors do not appear to have reported separate estimates from their six-year study of the primary market, and the relationship is, therefore, tentative. Their study did suggest that the bank's presence in the market is negatively associated with the number of effectively non-renewable licenses on the foreign exchange (see Table 1, footnote 10 in the original article).

- Before connecting, connect the cable to the ground. Check that the cable and the car battery are connected correctly.
- After connection is complete, press the bipolar button on the CD player with the tip of a pencil.
- The aim is to connect the ground lead (black) to the vehicle body or some other metal part that is directly grounded to the chassis. If the ground lead is not properly connected, radio noise occurs in the vehicle; this can operate correctly.
- This unit is for vehicles with a 12-volt battery and negative grounding. Therefore, connecting it to a non-standard vehicle (such as a truck, for instance) requires caution.
- Do not connect it to the vehicle's battery, as this could damage the battery.
- Check whether installation and wiring have been carried out correctly. If needed, the personnel at the company, who connect the end of the cable to the tape, turn it to the correct side of the battery.
- Remove the wiring with cable clamps or sufficient tape. To protect the wiring, avoid adhesive tapes around them unless they are special tape parts.
- Route and secure the wiring as follows: Route any connecting parts, such as the power cord, microphone, and rear cable. Do not route wiring in a place that gets too much vibration or heat. Do not route the wiring under the car floor. There is a danger of the wiring short-circuiting in the vehicle body.
- Do not run the yellow lead through a hole into the engine compartment in any way in the factory. This will damage the lead insulation and cause a fire (always use other).
- Do not shorten any leads. If you do (the protection shield may fall in water when it rains).
- Never feed power to other equipment by cutting the insulation of the power supply lead of the car and connecting one to the lead of the other. The capacity of the lead will be reduced, and the car may become damaged.
- Before the car will start, the tape attached to the lead has to be removed.
