Reading Fluency Timothy Rasinski,William Rupley,David Paige,Chase Young,2021-01-21 Reading fluency has been identified as a key component of proficient reading Research has consistently demonstrated significant and substantial correlations between reading fluency and overall reading achievement Despite the great potential for fluency to have a significant outcome on students reading achievement it continues to be not well understood by teachers school administrators and policy makers The chapters in this volume examine reading fluency from a variety of perspectives The initial chapter sketches the history of fluency as a literacy instruction component Following chapters examine recent studies and approaches to reading fluency followed by chapters that explore actual fluency instruction models and the impact of fluency instruction Assessment of reading fluency is critical for monitoring progress and identifying students in need of intervention Two articles on assessment one focused on word recognition and the other on prosody expand our understanding of fluency measurement Finally a study from Turkey explores the relationship of various reading competencies including fluency in an integrated model of reading Our hope for this volume is that it may spark a renewed interest in research into reading fluency and fluency instruction and move toward making fluency instruction an even more integral part of all literacy instruction      Improving Student Achievement David W. Grissmer, Ann Flanagan, Jennifer H. Kawata, Stephanie Williamson, Tom LaTourrette, 2000-07-19 Why do students have different achievement levels across states Is math achievement improving across states Differences in average achievement levels across states are mainly traceable to differing family characteristics However students from similar families also score differently across states These differences are related to differences in resource levels and in how resources are spent States with high spending per pupil lower pupil teacher ratios higher participation in public prekindergarten and higher reported teacher resources have higher achievement Disadvantaged children are the most sensitive to low resource and additional resources could substantially raise their scores Between state rather than within state differences in resources appear to be the main reason for inequitable resource levels for students of lower socioeconomic status The conclusion is that significant math gains are occurring across most states that cannot be traced to resource changes that the rate of gain varies significantly by state and that reform efforts are the likely cause of these gains The results certainly challenge the traditional view of public education as unreformable      State Indicators in Education 1997 Richard P. Phelps, 1997      Issues in Educating Students With Disabilities John Wills Lloyd, Edward J. Kameenui, David J. Palfrey,2006-11-27 Who will speak for the children is the question posed by Judith S Palfrey a pediatrician and child advocate who confronts unconscionable disparities in U S health care a system that persistently fails sick and disabled children despite annual expenditures of 1.8 trillion. In Child Health in America, Palfrey explores the meaning of advocacy to children's health and describes how health providers, community agencies, teachers, parents, and others can work together to bring about needed change. Palfrey presents a conceptual framework for child health advocacy consisting of four interconnected components: clinical, group, professional, and legislative. Describing each of these concepts in useful and compelling detail, she is also careful to provide examples of best practices. This original and progressive work affirms the urgent need for child advocacy and provides valuable guidance to those seeking to participate in efforts to help all children live healthier, happier lives.

Digest of Education Statistics 2012 Thomas D. Snyder, Sally A. Dillow, 2014-04

Digest of Education Statistics 2012 is the 48th in a series of publications initiated in 1962. Its primary purpose is to provide a compilation of statistical information covering the broad field of American education from pre-kindergarten through graduate school, drawn from government and private sources but especially from surveys and other activities led by NCES, National Center for Education Statistics, part of the Institute for Education Sciences (IES). The digest contains data on the number of schools, students, and teachers, as well as statistics on educational attainment, finances, libraries, technology, and international comparisons. Details on population trends, education attitudes, labor force characteristics, and federal aid supplies helpful background for evaluating the education data. This statistical reference could be helpful to parents choosing schools for their children, as well as for teachers, librarians, and public administrators, as it tracks enrollment, population trends, and key areas of studies with student progress. It also tracks the post-secondary, college level, detailing undergraduate tuition and room and board (ESTIMATE) costs at private nonprofit institutions, private for-profit institutions, and public institutions. It also tallies the number of postsecondary degrees and provides some gender demographics in this area. The Digest contains seven chapters: All Levels of Education, Elementary and Secondary Education, Postsecondary Education, Federal Programs for Education and Related Activities, Outcomes of Education, International Comparisons of Education, and Libraries and Adult Education. Preceding these chapters is an Introduction that provides a brief overview of current trends in American education, which supplements the tabular materials in chapters 1 through 7. The Digest concludes with three appendixes. The first appendix, Guide to Sources, provides a brief synopsis of the surveys used to generate the Digest tables. The second, Definitions, is included to help readers understand terms used in the Digest, and the third, Index of Table Numbers, allows readers to quickly locate tables on specific topics. In addition to updating many of the statistics that have appeared in previous years, this edition contains new material, including: Percentage distribution of 6 to 18 year olds by parent's highest level of educational attainment; household type, either two parent or single parent; and child's race/ethnicity; table 12: Enrollment and percentage distribution of enrollment in public elementary and secondary schools by race/ethnicity and region; table 44: Number and percentage of public school students participating in programs for English language learners by state; table 47: Children 3 to 21 years old served under Individuals with Disabilities Education Act Part B by age group and race/ethnicity; table 49.
