The Civil Rights Movement

The Civil Rights Movement is known as a period of time in the 1950s and 1960s that really began about 100 years earlier, after the American Civil War. The Civil Rights Movement occurred because of the desire for racial equality after the end of slavery in America.

After the Civil War, the American South was a very racist place. There were many segregation laws, which meant people were kept separate. There were segregation laws for schools and where people could live. There were also laws that said that people could not marry someone of a different race.

One of the first Black children to desegregate schools in the South was Ruby Bridges. She was the only Black child to go to an all-white elementary school in New Orleans, Louisiana, in 1960.

Ruby's father, a Black man, was a member of the NAACP. He was a leader in the Civil Rights Movement. He was a member of the NAACP because he believed that all people should be treated equally.
