Rotorcraft Flight Manual

Introduction

This is a copy of the Federal Aviation Regulations (FAR) 29 CFR part 29, which governs the design, construction, and operation of rotorcraft. It is a comprehensive manual that covers all aspects of rotorcraft flight, from the basic principles of flight to the most advanced techniques. The manual is divided into several sections, each covering a different aspect of rotorcraft flight. The first section covers the basic principles of flight, including the laws of aerodynamics and the principles of rotorcraft flight. The second section covers the design and construction of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the fuselage, rotor system, and landing gear. The third section covers the operation of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the pilot, the crew, and the passengers. The fourth section covers the maintenance of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the inspection and repair of the aircraft. The fifth section covers the certification of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the approval of the aircraft and the pilot. The sixth section covers the training of pilots, including the requirements for the flight instructor and the pilot. The seventh section covers the safety of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the investigation of accidents and the implementation of safety measures. The eighth section covers the noise of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the measurement and reduction of noise. The ninth section covers the environmental impact of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the assessment and mitigation of environmental effects. The tenth section covers the economic impact of rotorcraft, including the requirements for the assessment and mitigation of economic effects. The manual is a comprehensive guide to the design, construction, and operation of rotorcraft, and it is essential reading for anyone involved in the industry.
