House of Commons,1918 The Limits to Governance Theo Papaioannou,2016-03-03 Does the state still frame debates about new technology Can policy makers ensure the benefits of health developments through genomics while still satisfying the expectations of society and the economic imperatives In this critique of the new governance agenda for research and innovation in life sciences the authors discuss the world wide policy decisions needed with particular reference to genomics They suggest the many facets of policy and could be treated as a government governance continuum where different aspects of genomics may sit at different points and co exist Their findings offer valuable insights for the future and will help promote a global solution to this problem Resources in Education ,1990 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 The Phonetic Journal ,1890 President Obama Louis Fisher,2018-07-12 On the campaign trail Barack Obama spoke often about his constitutional principles In particular he objected to George W Bush s claim to certain inherent presidential powers that could not be checked by Congress or the judiciary After his inauguration how did President Obama s constitutional principles fare That is the question Louis Fisher explores in this book a disturbing and timely study of the tension between constitutional aspirations and executive actions in the American presidency A constitutional scholar Fisher views Obama s two terms within the context of other presidencies and in light of the principles set forth by the Framers His work reveals how the basic system of checks and balances has been substantially altered by Supreme Court decisions military initiatives and scholarship promoting the power of the president and by presidents progressively more inclined to wield that power In this analysis we see the steps by which Obama himself an expert on the Constitution came to press his agenda more and more aggressively through executive actions on climate change renewable energy the auto industry bail out education initiatives and financial reform Rather than focus on policy Fisher examines the politics and practical concerns that drive executive overreach as well as the impact of such expanded powers on bipartisan support public understanding and finally the functioning of government A fair but critical assessment of Obama s executive performance and legacy this sobering book documents the erosion of constitutional principles that prepared the way for the presidency of Donald Trump U.S. Government Research & Development Reports ,1971

Select List of Publications Issued by Senate and House Committees United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Government Operations,1961 Transdex Index ,1996 An index to translations issued by the United States Joint Publications Research Service JPRS Toxicological Risks of Selected Flame-Retardant Chemicals National Research Council,Commission on Life Sciences,Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology,Committee on Toxicology,Subcommittee on Flame-Retardant Chemicals,2000-07-06 Ignition of upholstered furniture by small open flames from matches cigarette lighters and candles is one of the leading causes of residential fire deaths in the United States These fires accounted for about 16% of civilian fire deaths in 1996. On average each year since 1990 about 90 deaths primarily of children, 440 injuries and property losses amounting to 50 million dollars have resulted from fires caused by the ignition of upholstered furniture by small open flames. Certain commercial seating products such as aircraft and bus seats are subject to flammability standards and sometimes incorporate FR treated upholstery cover materials but there is no federal government requirement for residential upholstered furniture and it is generally not treated with FR chemicals. It is estimated that less than 0.2% of all U.S. residential upholstery fabric is treated with flame retardant FR chemicals. The Consumer Product Safety Act of 1972 created the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) as an independent federal regulatory agency whose mission is to protect the public from unreasonable risks of injury and death associated with consumer products. CPSC also administers the Flammable Fabrics Act under which it regulates flammability hazards and the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (FHSA) which regulates hazardous substances including chemicals. In 1993 the National Association of State Fire Marshals petitioned CPSC to issue a performance based flammability standard for upholstered furniture to reduce the risk of residential fires. The Commission granted that portion of the petition relating to small open flame ignition risks. In response to concerns regarding the safety of FR chemicals, Congress in the fiscal year 1999 appropriations report for CPSC requested that the National Research Council conduct an independent study of the health risks to consumers posed by exposure to FR chemicals that are likely to be used in residential upholstered furniture to meet a CPSC standard. The National Research Council assigned the project to the Committee on Toxicology (COT) of the Commission on Life Sciences Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology. COT convened the Subcommittee on Flame Retardant Chemicals which prepared this report. Subcommittee members were chosen for their recognized expertise in toxicology, pharmacology, epidemiology, chemistry, exposure assessment, risk assessment and biostatistics. Toxicological Risks of Selected Flame Retardant Chemicals is organized into 18 chapters and two appendices. Chapter 2 describes the risk assessment process used by the subcommittee in determining the risk associated with potential exposure to the various FR chemicals. Chapter 3 describes the method the subcommittee used to measure and estimate the intensity, frequency, extent and duration of human exposure to FR chemicals. Chapters 4-19 provide the subcommittee's review and assessment of health risks posed by exposure to each of the 16 FR chemicals. Data gaps and research needs are provided at the end of these chapters.

Fascinating Jill Lepore The New Yorker A sweeping history of data and its technical political and ethical impact on our world From facial recognition capable of checking people into flights or identifying undocumented residents to automated decision systems that inform who gets loans and who receives bail each of us moves through a world determined by data empowered algorithms But these technologies didn't just appear they are part of a history that goes back centuries from the census enshrined in the US Constitution to the birth of eugenics in Victorian Britain to the development of Google search Expanding on the popular course they created at Columbia University Chris Wiggins and Matthew L Jones illuminate the ways in which data has long been used as a tool and a weapon in arguing for what is true as well as a means of rearranging or defending power They explore how data was created and curated as well as how new mathematical and computational techniques developed to contend with that data serve to shape people ideas society military operations and economies Although technology and mathematics are at its heart the story of data ultimately concerns an unstable game among states corporations and people How were new technical and scientific capabilities developed who supported advanced or funded these capabilities or transitions and how did they change who could do what from what and to whom Wiggins and Jones focus on these questions as they trace data s historical arc and look to the future By understanding the trajectory of data where it has been and where it might yet go Wiggins and Jones argue that we can understand how to bend it to ends that we collectively choose with intentionality and purpose Genes, Trade, and Regulation Thomas Bernauer, 2016-06-28

Agricultural or green biotechnology is a source of growing tensions in the global trading system particularly between the United States and the European Union Genetically modified food faces an uncertain future The technology behind it might revolutionize food production around the world Or it might follow the example of nuclear energy which declined from a symbol of socioeconomic progress to become one of the most unpopular and uneconomical innovations in history This book provides novel and thought provoking insights into the fundamental policy issues involved in agricultural biotechnology Thomas Bernauer explains global regulatory polarization and trade conflict in this area He then evaluates cooperative and unilateral policy tools for coping with trade tensions Arguing that the tools used thus far have been and will continue to be ineffective he concludes that the risk of a full blown trade conflict is high and may lead to reduced investment and the decline of the technology Bernauer concludes with suggestions for policy reforms to halt this trajectory recommendations that strike a sensible balance between public safety concerns and private economic freedom so that food biotechnology is given a fair chance to prove its environmental health humanitarian and economic benefits This book will equip companies farmers regulators NGOs academics students and the interested public including both advocates and critics of green biotechnology with a deeper understanding of the political economic and societal factors shaping the future of one of the most revolutionary technologies of our times Catalogue, Books and Journals in Advanced Mathematics American Mathematical Society, 1985
