Aptitude Paper I Chapter wise Solved Papers Forgotten Marlene Goldman, 2017-11-07 Since the 1860s long before scientists put a name to Alzheimer's disease Canadian authors have been writing about age related dementia Originally most of these stories were elegies designed to offer readers consolation Over time they evolved into narratives of gothic horror in which the illness is presented not as a normal consequence of aging but as an apocalyptic transformation Weaving together scientific cultural and aesthetic depictions of dementia and Alzheimer's disease Forgotten asserts that the only crisis associated with Canada's aging population is one of misunderstanding Revealing that turning illness into something monstrous can have dangerous consequences Marlene Goldman seeks to identify the political and social influences that have led to the gothic disease model and its effects on society Examining the works of authors such as Alice Munro Michael Ignatieff Jane Rule and Caroline Adderson alongside news stories and medical and historical discussions of Alzheimer's disease Goldman provides an alternative person centred perspective to the experiences of aging and age related dementia Deconstructing the myths that have transformed cognitive decline into a corrosive fantasy Forgotten establishes the pivotal role that fictional and non fictional narratives play in cultural interpretations of disease The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather. The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect, the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt. Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education, Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s; it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six-day-long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C. Wallace's reinvigorated school. Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh, officials closed the school in 2008, citing over $50 million in necessary renovations, a controversial event that captured national attention. Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews, historical documents, and hundreds of first-person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school. A memorable, important work of local and educational history, his book is a case study of desegregation, magnet education, and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools.
