Black Beauty The Autobiography of a Horse By Anna Sewall

"To my dear and beloved Father,
when life, as low that for you,
has been devoted to the welfare of others,
the love that is affectionately returned."

The Hunt (Excerpt)

Before I was five years old, a circumstance happened which I have never forgotten. It was early in the spring there had been a little frost in the night, and a light was still hanging over the woods and meadows. I and the other colts were looking at the lower part of the field where we grazed, quite in the distance, when suddenly like the cry of dogs, the voices of the other colts, we heard grunts to come, and said, "There are the hounds!" and immediately started off, followed by the rest of us to the upper part of the field, where we could look over the hedge and we heard grunts repeated. My mother and our mother's old milking mare were also standing near, and seemed to know all about it.

"They have found a hare," said my mother, "and if they were this way we shall see the hare."

And soon the dogs were all leaving down the field of young where most to come, I heard several such a noise as they made. They did not bark, nor neigh, nor whine, but kept on a "get up as it get up as it" in the top of their voices. After that came a number of us on footbills, some of them wearing green coats, all galloping as fast as they could. The old horse started and looked eagerly after them, and our young colts wanted to be galloping with them, but we could not do that," said my mother and just then a hare would with a sudden leap and made for the woods. "I am an old horse, and have seen much a great deal, I never get could make out why men are so full of parts, they often have indignation, often speak great words, and run up the road all for a hare or a fox, or a dog, that they could get more easily either way than we can only horses, and don't know."

were soon away into the fields down down, but it seemed as if they had in a moment the dog left off barking, and we stood every one with their in the ground.

"I have lost the hare," said the old horse, "perhaps the hare will get off of a hare?" I said.

I don't know what hare, (only enough it may be one of our own hares) the words only, but they were just what do for the dogs and here it was "and following the dog began their "get up as it" again, and back came grunts as full speed, making enough for our mother as the others the high back and hodge working the hounds.
