Cooking For High Triglycerides Jonathan Campbell,2010-03-03 Cooking For High Triglycerides What are high triglycerides What foods are safe to eat What foods are not safe to eat Inside this cookbook you will find the answers to those questions along with 160 recipes aimed at lowering your cholesterol triglycerides LDL cholesterol as well as raising your HDL cholesterol 118 recipes with no cholesterol per serving 146 recipes with less than 5 grams of sugar 148 recipes with 1 gram or less saturated fat According to the latest dietary information the following are the requirements for a triglyceride friendly diet Less than 200mg of cholesterol per day Less than 40g of sugar per day I urge you to take the steps needed to give yourself a healthier life try these recipes and see how easy and tasty it is to be cooking for high triglycerides High Triglycerides Diet Larry Jameson,2023-03-02 Based on the gathered results from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey from 2001 2012 25 1% of adult Americans aged 20 and older had increased triglyceride levels 150 mg dL during 2009 2012 Although this was lower than the 33 3% prevalence in 2001 2004 it is still alarming given the current lifestyle of Americans which involves the consumption of mostly processed and fast foods and a sedentary lifestyle that contributes to the increased prevalence of obesity Increased triglyceride levels are said to be related to cardiovascular diseases such as heart attack heart failure and stroke And according to the Harvard Medical School having high triglyceride levels may be an indication of a metabolic syndrome such as diabetes and pancreatitis Because of the complications associated with high triglycerides it is recommended that those with high triglyceride levels engage in beneficial lifestyles such as increasing physical activity losing weight quitting smoking and having a balanced diet However it is difficult to monitor if you have high triglyceride levels because having this condition does not entail visible and characteristic symptoms There are no recorded symptoms specific to having high triglycerides alone The only way to know if you have high triglycerides is through a blood test that will assess your lipid profile Now you may have already started wondering about what triglycerides are exactly And how does it affect your overall condition These questions will be answered throughout this guide But to give you a hint it is a type of lipid that can be found in our bodies performing an array of functions In this guide you are expected to learn more about the following What are triglycerides What are the functions of triglycerides in your body What are considered normal levels of triglycerides Why is it bad if your triglyceride levels are high What can you do to manage to have high triglycerides High Triglyceride Diet Recipes Dr Wooten Rodgers,2021-07-15 Triglycerides are the most common type of fat in the body The food that people eat whether it is from animal or plant sources can affect the levels of triglycerides in the blood There are many different types of fat from the polyunsaturated fats in olive oil to the saturated fats in red meat They all contribute to triglyceride levels in the body but do so in different ways When a person eats more calories than their body needs it stores these extra calories in the form of triglyceride fats When the body needs more energy at a later stage it consumes these fats Triglycerides are important for health but high levels increase the risk of heart disease which is the leading cause of death in the United States Lowering triglyceride levels and reducing other risk factors can decrease a person's likelihood of developing heart disease There are many ways to reduce triglyceride levels safely The best method may depend on the cause of the high triglyceride levels Do you have high triglyceride levels alone Or more than a third of adults in the US have high triglyceride levels in their blood Although many of us don't know the first thing about high triglycerides Studies consistently link high triglycerides with heart disease and the low levels of good HDL cholesterol and type 2 diabetes Triglyceride levels are usually measured when you have a blood test called a Lipid Profile Everyone over age 20 should have their cholesterol checked at least every 5 years Your health provider can check your cholesterol and triglyceride levels by taking a sample of blood when not taking any medications The Lipid Profile shows your triglyceride total cholesterol HDL cholesterol and LDL cholesterol and LDL low density lipoprotein cholesterol Blood triglyceride levels are normally less than 150 mg/dL Therefore you should wait 12 hours after eating and drinking before having your triglyceride level tested Moreover, fasting blood triglyceride levels including high density lipoprotein time of day and recent exercise Get your copy today by scrolling up and clicking Buy Now to get your copy today
